MEDICAL COUNCIL OF INDIA

New Delhi, the 4th December 1965

No. MCI-Reg./5.—Whereas the Medical Council of India has in pursuance of sub-section (1) of section 21 of the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 (102 of 56), maintained a register known as the Indian Medical Register which contains the names of all persons who are for the time being enrolled on any State Medical Register and who possess any of the recognised medical qualifications under the Act.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of sub-section (2) of section 21 of the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 (102 of 56), the Registrar, Medical Council of India, hereby directs that supplement to the Indian Medical Register for the year 1964 (i.e. from 1-1-1964 to 31-12-1964) shall be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

B. President & Vice-President :

Dr. R. C. Cooper (Bombay) who was elected President at the Fourteenth Annual Meeting held in September 1963, continued in office upto 16th September 1964.

Shri Raghu Nath Rai (New Delhi) who was Vice-President in the preceding year was elected President at the meeting of the Council held on 17th September 1964, and at the same time, Shri M. P. Chitale (Bombay) was elected Vice-President.

C. Farewell to Shri N. R. Mody :

Shri N. R. Mody, who had been a member of the Council since 1949, retired from the Council on becoming a Director of Tata Industries Private Ltd. He attended his last meeting of the Council in January, 1965 at which the following resolution was passed by the Council in recognition of the meritorious services rendered by him to the Institute and the Profession :

"The Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India places on record the most valuable services rendered by Shri N. R. Mody, the senior-most member of the Council as well as the senior-most past President of the Institute on the Council, who has recently announced his retirement.

Shri Mody was a member of the Indian Accountancy Board and a member of the Expert Committee appointed by the Government of India to frame the Chartered Accountants Act which led to the setting up of the Institute. He was elected to the first Council in 1949 and has continued to be a Council member until now. During his long association of 17 years with the affairs of the Institute and the Council, including Vice-Presidency during 1953-54, and Presidency during 1954-55, Shri Mody brought to bear on the deliberations of the Council and of its various Committees, his wide knowledge, experience, dignity and prestige. He has been a tower of strength to the Institute and for his long, distinguished and devoted service to the profession, the Council owes an immense debt of gratitude to him.

While the Council is sorry to lose him, it is happy at the same time that Shri Mody is taking up an assignment where his special talent in the fields of finance and Management would be drawn upon by the largest industrial house in the country. Shri Mody would be representing the House of Tatas in the United States and the Council is proud that, in him, the profession will have such a distinguished and capable unofficial ambassador in the United States, which position could not be filled by a more fitting person. The Council is confident that Shri Mody will distinguish himself, as usual, in his new assignment also.

The Council, on behalf of the entire profession, wishes Shri Mody the very best of luck and the best of success.

The Council extends to him a cordial invitation to attend its meetings and to take part in its deliberations whenever he may happen to be in India at a time when the Council is in session."

Speeches made at the said meeting by different members of the Council have already been reproduced in April 1965, issue of "The Chartered Accountant".

II. MEMBERS

A. Membership Changes :

The number of members admitted during the year 1964-65 was 767 as compared to 593 in the previous year. The total number of members of the Institute on 31st March 1965, was 6,821 compared to 6,068 on 31st March 1964, an increase of 753. Details of the changes are given in Appendix "A".

B. Fellowship :

During the year 1964-65, the number of Associates who became Fellows on the basis of five years' continuous practice was 151 (compared to 171 during the year 1963-64). 11 Associates were enrolled as Fellows on the ground that they possessed experience considered equivalent to the experience normally acquired as a result of continuous practice for a period of 5 years, under Regulation 5(3) of the Chartered Accountants Regulations, 1964 (compared to 7 during 1963-64).

C. Recognition of Foreign Qualifications :

The Council has decided that Registered Accountants of Burma and Members of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Pakistan, who are permanent residents of India, may be admitted as members of the Institute under Section 4(i) (v) of the Chartered Accountants Act, subject to their status as permanent residents in each case being determined by the Council.

The Council has also decided to recognise the practical training and/or the examination passed under the bye-laws of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Pakistan in the case of persons permanently residing in India. Necessary action is being taken to implement this decision of the Council.

D. List of members :

The list of members as on 1st April 1965, has been published and copies have been supplied on requests received from members.

E. Disciplinary action :

Details of the findings of the Council in the cases referred by it for enquiry to the Disciplinary Committee under Regulation 11(8) since last report are given in Appendix "B".

F. Professional Ethics :

1. In the last report a mention had been made that the Council would be bringing out shortly a booklet summarising and illustrating the principles affecting auditors, their rights, duties, obligations, practice etc., settled by legal decisions. A booklet with the title "Professional Ethics—Short Notes on High Court Decisions" has been published and supplied to all the members of the Institute free of charge.

2. During the year under report the Council issued the following statements which were published in "The Chartered Accountant" :—

(1) "Independence of Auditors" (May 1964)

"The subject of independence of auditors has been discussed of late and one of the matters concerns the appointment as auditors of persons who are relatives of Managing Agents, Managing Directors, whole-time Director or a partner of the firm acting as Managing Agents/Secretaries/Treasurers of the Company. It has been mentioned that in such instances where close relationship exists, it is possible that the independence of an auditor may be jeopardized.

Although the Council feels that there are adequate safeguards provided in the Companies Act as well as in the Chartered Accountants Act, it is of the view that independence, being a state of the mind, is not necessarily affected by the fact of mere-relationship any more than it would be in existence if the relationship did not exist. In any case, lest there may be any feeling in the public mind that relationship would affect the independence of auditors, the Council suggests that where, due to the near relationship of an auditor with a Managing or a whole-time Director or a Partner of the firm acting as Managing Agents/Secretaries/Treasurers of the firm, the independence of an auditor is likely to be jeopardized, he should use his good sense, and acting in the best traditions of the profession, refrain from accepting the appointment. Similarly, if an auditor is a relative of a Director other than a Managing or a whole-time Director or an associate of the Managing Agents, the partner of the firm who is so related may not, if he feels that his independence is likely to be affected, perform the audit but should leave it to another partner of the firm".

2. Clause (9) of Part I of First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949. (February 1965)

"A reference is invited to clause (9) of Part I of the First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949, which is reproduced below :—

"A chartered accountant in practice shall be deemed to be guilty of professional misconduct, if he—

(9) Accepts an appointment as auditor of a company without first ascertaining from it whether the requirements of Section 226 of the Companies Act, 1956, in respect of such appointment have been duly complied with."

Section 226 of the Companies Act, 1956, does not however lay down any requirement which the company appointing the auditors has to comply with before such appointment is made. This reference is, therefore, obviously incorrect. The correct reference should have been to Sections 224 and 225 which lay down the requirements and formalities to be complied with by the company while making an appointment or reappointment of auditors and their remuneration and the resolutions to be passed for appointing or removing auditors.

The matter has been carefully considered by the Council in consultation with the Department of Company Law Administration, Ministry of Commerce & Industry, Government of India, and it has been decided to advise all members that the reference to Section 226 of the Companies Act 1956, in the said clause (9) being an obvious mistake for Sections 224 and 225 of the Companies Act, and moreover as the Schedules to the Chartered Accountants Act are only illustrative and not exhaustive (vide Section 22 of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949), failure on the part of any chartered accountant in practice to ascertain before accepting an appointment as auditor of a Company whether the requirements of Sections 224 and 225 of the Companies Act, 1956, in respect of such appointment have been duly complied with by such company may render him liable to be deemed guilty of professional misconduct within the meaning of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949".

By the Repealing and Amending Act, 1964, the reference to Section 226 in clause (9) of Part I of the First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949, has been changed to a reference to "Section 225" only and the reference to Section 224 has been omitted. This being an obvious mistake, and moreover as the Schedules to the Chartered Accountants Act are only illustrative and not exhaustive, the Council once again wishes to point out that the failure on the part of any chartered accountant in practice to ascertain, before accepting the appointment as auditor of a company whether the requirements of Sections 224 and 225 of the Companies Act 1956, in respect of such appointment have been duly complied with by such company, may still render him liable to be deemed guilty of professional misconduct within the meaning of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949.

3. Use of Telegraphic Addresses by Members which Smack of Publicity. (October 1964)

A question has been raised whether it would amount to "advertisement" if a member of the Institute registers as his telegraphic address words such as Tax Expert or Tax Consultant or Consultants, Audit Expert, Company Audit, All Audit, Free Advice, Audit Advice or Tax Advice, Tax Audit, Faithful, Fearless, Carefree etc.

The Council is of opinion that the members of the Institute should not use any words as their telegraphic address which would smack of publicity. Therefore, use of words of the type mentioned above or similar other words would be objectionable. Such of those members who have already registered as their telegraphic address, such words or similar other words are requested to substitute them by suitable other words which would not infringe the rules of professional etiquette. (March 1965)

In view of the representations made to the Council on the Note No. XXXVI on the above subject which was published in the October 1964 issue of "The Chartered Accountant", it has been decided to withdraw this note leaving it to the good sense of the members to avoid the use of any words as their telegraphic address which would smack of publicity or which would be indicative of any specialised service.

The Council is of opinion that the name, description and address of a member (or firm) may appear in any directory or list of members of a particular body in which the names are listed alphabetically.

For a specialised directory or a publication such as a Who's Who (including those compiled on a purely local basis), a member should use his discretion as to the information which he supplies, bearing in mind the nature and purpose of the publication. In addition to his name, description and address and those of his firm, a member may give, where appropriate, directorships held and reasonable personal details and may state his outside interests. He should not, however, give the names of any of his clients or details of the services offered by his firm.

The above rules apply whether the entry is paid for or not.

G. Library :

During the year, 484 books were added to the Central Council Library bringing the total number of books to 5,451. As can be seen from the figures given below, increasing use of the Library is being made by the members :—

Year	Attendances	No. of Books consulted
1960-61	1,966	3,747
1961-62	2,796	5,038
1962-63	3,483	5,330
1963-64	3,563	5,420
1964-65	3,698	6,094

According to the decision of the Council, books are being sent by Post to the members, who are preparing for the Management Accountancy Course and residing outside Delhi from this year.

The Central Council sanctioned an amount of Rs. 2,000/- for purchase of books for the Eastern India Regional Council Library for the year 1964-65.

The details of the use of the Regional Council Libraries are given below :—

Libraries	Year	Attendances	Total No. of books	Books consulted
W.I.R.C. Bombay	1964-65	2,024	1,915	1,085
S.I.R.C. Madras	1964-65	636	968	238
E.I.R.C. Calcutta	1964-65	922	1,460	2,573
C.I.R.C. Kanpur	1964-65	200	270	—

In addition, there are 430 books on Management Accountancy in the Regional Council Libraries for the use of members who are preparing for the Management Accountancy Examination.

The authorities of the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) in New Delhi had been approached some time back with the request for co-operation in the field of Research and Educational programmes of the Institute. They have given a positive response by gifting to us 1,110 books under 92 titles being the latest publications on Accountancy and allied subjects. Four copies of the titles have been retained in the Central Library, and two copies of each book have been sent to each of the Regional Council Libraries, viz., Western India Regional Council Library, Southern India Regional Council Library and Eastern India Regional Council Library. The Council is grateful to the USAID authorities for the help rendered.

H. Employment Register.

There has been an increasing demand from trade and industry for members of this Institute. To enhance further the employment opportunities for members, circulars were issued to various Chambers of Commerce and important Industrial Undertakings both in the public and private sectors, for recruitment of Chartered Accountants. The successful candidates in the Chartered Accountants Final Examination were also informed of the existence of the employment assistance provided by the Institute.

The total number of members on the Employment Register on 31st March, 1965 was 295 against 162 on 31st March 1964. During the year under report, recommendations were made to 25 concerns for employment of Chartered Accountants. Replies have been received from 6 concerns only out of which two are reported to have selected three candidates recommended by us.

III. EXAMINATIONS

A. Examinations in 1964.

Examinations as usual were held in May and November 1964 at various centres all over India. The statistics regarding the number of candidates who appeared and those declared successful are given in Appendix "C".

B. Prizes and Certificates of Merit.

Names of candidates who were awarded Prizes and Certificates of Merit in these examinations are included in Appendix "D".

C. Order of the Council under Regulation 180 of the Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964.

During the year, a case was brought to the notice of the Council that even though Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964 which came into effect from 18th July 1964 removed the restriction that a candidate who has passed one group of the final examination should pass the remaining group in the next six available consecutive attempts, this exemption did not cover a candidate who has passed one group of the Final Examination prior to November 1949 under the Auditors' Certificate Rules 1932. The Council passed the following order under regulation 180 of the Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964 to extend the benefit of the concession to the candidates who had passed only one group of the Final examination held under the Auditor's Certificates Rules 1932 :

"By virtue of the powers vested under Regulation 180 of the Chartered Accountants Regulations, 1964, it is hereby ordered that a candidate who had been declared to have passed in one group of the Final Examination under the Auditors' Certificate Rules, 1932 shall be considered to have passed the Examination if he passes the remaining group at a subsequent examination held under para 9 or para 10 of the Schedule 'B' to the Chartered Accountants Regulations, 1964".

D. Coaching Board.

During the year under report, 2069 students were enrolled for the Intermediate Course as against 1788 in the earlier year. Other particulars, relevant to the courses of study provided, are contained in Appendix 'E'. On a reference thereto, it would be seen that the increase in the number of students enrolled also had its impact on the number of students who appeared for the Intermediate examination. But there was a slight fall, as compared to the previous year, in the number of students who appeared for the Final Examination. This fall is to be attributed to the change in the syllabus which took effect from the November 1964 Examination.

The Board has been making ceaseless efforts to strengthen the technical side of its organisation. A Deputy Director of Studies has been appointed at the centre.

On the Board decentralising some of its functions, at some of the Regional Councils a separate Coaching Board wing was set up. The organisation of these wings, to a great extent, has been stabilized by appointment of more part-time Examiners and increase in the strength of the administrative staff. It is now proposed to appoint one Assistant Director of Studies at these Regional Centres for the purpose of strengthening the organisation of the Coaching Board wing and to enable it to render a more purposeful assistance to the students.

On a consideration of the fact that the Revision Courses organised by the Regional Councils were not being attended by as large a number of students as should be the case, the Board has recommended to them that they might consider, making the Revision Courses more intensive by reducing their length and altering their contents by re-orienting the pattern of instructions.

The recommendation of the Board was implemented by the Western India Regional Council and the response of the students to the new scheme was excellent. The enrolment increased considerably.

For improving the quality of examination of students' answer papers the Board last year had appointed four full-time Tutors at Delhi as an experimental measure. The method having been found to be more effective, it has been decided to appoint full-time Tutors at Regional headquarters as well : and also to appoint a number of Examiners on part-time basis who will attend Board's office for 2 or 3 hours a day.

IV. ARTICLED AND AUDIT CLERKS

A. Fresh Enrolments.

During the year 1964, 2175 articled clerks were registered as compared to 1567 during the year 1963, 647 audit clerks were registered during the year as against 386 in 1963.

B. Industrial Training.

In view of the increasingly important role played by the members of the Institute in Industry, the Council has taken steps for providing industrial training as part of the practical training for those articled and audit clerks who desire to have such training. The salient features of the scheme of Industrial Training are :—

- Articled and audit clerks have the option of having training in an Industrial or business concern for a period not exceeding 12 months in all during the last year of the prescribed period of practical training.
- Articled and audit clerks who have been granted a remission in their period of practical training on the basis of certain academic attainments, have the option of undergoing industrial training for a period of six months in all during the last year of their practical training.
- The concern in which the industrial training is proposed to be undergone must have total assets of at least Rs. 50 lakhs.
- The training in an industry has to be taken under a member of this Institute employed in the concern who has at least 3 years standing and

- (e) For the purpose of such training a regular deed of articles has to be entered into between the employer, the Chartered Accountant employed in the undertaking and the clerk.

Various Chambers of Commerce and important Industrial Houses were contacted and requested to afford maximum facilities to the apprentices in the matter of Industrial training. Many companies, both in the public and private sectors, have agreed to take our students for industrial training. The number of students so far registered for industrial training is 80. A list of the Companies who have agreed to impart the Industrial Training is being published in the Institute's Journal from time to time for the information of all concerned.

C. Hostel facilities to Articled & Audit Clerks.

The Council has decided to provide hostel facilities to its articled and audit clerks. It has requested the Executive Committee to prepare a scheme for its consideration.

D. Payment of Stipends.

The Council has recommended that all members of the Institute training articled clerks should pay stipends to them. This will attract larger number of youngmen of the requisite calibre and high educational qualifications into the profession.

E. Merit and Loan Scholarship Scheme.

The Council has approved a Scheme for the award of merit and loan scholarships to articled and audit clerks undergoing Chartered Accountants Course.

Under this Scheme 10 merit scholarships of the value of Rs. 50/- each and tenable for a maximum period of 18 months would be awarded on the basis of the candidates' performance in the Intermediate Examination of the Institute; five (one from each region) on the basis of the result of the Intermediate Examination held in May and five (one from each region) on the basis of the result of the Examination held in November each year.

As regards the loan scholarships, the Council has decided that every year 20 scholarships (four from each region) of the value of Rs. 75 per mensem, tenable for a period of four years should be granted.

F. Recognition of certain examinations.

The Government of India on the recommendations made by the Council has recognised the following examinations as equivalent to the Intermediate Examination of a University for the purposes of the Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964.

- (i) Diploma in Commerce awarded by the Government of Madras.
- (ii) Diploma in Commerce (L. Com.) of the University of Mysore.
- (iii) Diploma in Commerce awarded by the Indian Merchants' Chamber, Bombay.
- (iv) The Intermediate/Final Examination of the Corporation of Secretaries, London.
- (v) The Intermediate/Final Examination of the Chartered Institute of Secretaries, London.
- (vi) The Intermediate/Final Examination of Company Secretaries by the Government of India.

The Council has further recognised the Diploma in Rural Services Examination conducted by the National Council of Rural Higher Education for the purpose of entering into service as an articled and/or audit clerk for the purposes of the Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964, provided the candidate has secured in the aggregate a minimum of 50% of the total marks. Necessary amendments to the Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964 are being made to give effect to this.

G. Students' Associations and their branches.

The Students' Associations have been quite active during the current year. Western India Chartered Accountants Students' Association held a Students' Conference. Accounting problems of new companies, statement of source and application of funds, cash flow statements etc. were some of the subjects discussed at the Conference. The Association also held this year a "Brain Trust Cum-At Home". Prizes were awarded to the students who presented best papers at the Conference and who raised the best questions at the Brains Trust meeting.

The Eastern India Chartered Accountants Students' Association also held a Students' Conference. The concept of Management Accounting and its application to Indian Industries, and Directors Remuneration and perquisites under Companies Act were the subjects discussed at the technical session.

The Southern India Chartered Accountants Students' Association held a conference of the Students' of Southern India. Among the important subjects discussed at the Conference were, valuation and verification of stock-in-trade, Accounting Ratios and their usefulness, Capital Gains Tax, Role of managing agents and their part, with reference to Companies Act, Machine Accounting in professional offices etc.

The branches of the students' Associations also did not lag behind. They held lectures, meetings, symposia etc.

V. INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES

A. Fourth Conference of Asian and Pacific Accountants

The Institute, jointly with the Institute of Cost and Works Accountants of India, is organising the Fourth Conference of Asian and Pacific Accountants to be held in Vigyan Bhavan, New Delhi from 29th November to 2nd December 1965. This is the first Conference of Accountants of an International character ever to be held in India.

This Conference is the fourth in the line of Conferences of accountants in the Asian and Pacific countries. The first Conference in the series was sponsored by the Philippine Institute of Certified Public Accountants and was held at Manila in November-December 1957. The second was sponsored jointly by the Australian Society of Accountants and the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Australia and was held at Melbourne in April 1960. The third Conference was sponsored by the Japanese Institute of Certified Public Accountants and was held at Tokyo and Kyoto in October 1962.

A Conference Committee consisting of 11 members, whose names are given below, has been appointed for making the necessary arrangements :

Mr. P. Brahmayya	Mr. D. D. Kalra
Mr. M. P. Chitale	Mr. N. K. Roy
Dr. R. C. Copper
Mr. S. N. Desai
Mr. C. P. Mukherjee
Mr. Raghu Nath Rai
Mr. B. P. Roy.

[Shri N. R. Mody who had earlier been appointed as the Chairman of the Conference Committee having resigned, Shri C. C. Chokshi was appointed Chairman in his place. In addition Shri M. P. Chitale, Vice-President of the Institute was also appointed as a member of the Committee].

Shri C. Balakrishnan, Secretary of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, is also acting as the Secretary to the Conference Committee and its various Sub-Committees and is incharge of the Conference Secretariat.

A number of Sub-Committees have also been informed for looking after different aspects of the Conference.

Invitations for sending delegations for attending the Conference were extended to 40 accountancy organisations in the Asian and Pacific region, including the United States and Canada. According to present indications 60 delegates and 14 observers representing different member-bodies from abroad will be attending the Conference. In addition, accountancy bodies in other parts of the world have also been invited to send observers. 983 delegates representing the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India and 99 representing the Institute of Cost and Works Accountants of India will also be attending the Conference. A few persons occupying senior positions in Government or Industry in India have been permitted to attend the Conference as observers.

The names of the member-bodies that will be participating in the Conference are given below :—

Applications have been invited from the members who wish to join the Institute's delegation and the selection of the delegates will be made shortly.

The theme of the Congress will be a study of the prospects of the profession : "The new Frontiers of Accountancy."

The topics to be discussed under this will be :—

- (a) Economic Aspect.
- (b) Geographical Aspect.
- (c) Technical and Scientific Aspects.
- (d) The task and training of the Accountant of tomorrow.

VI. REGIONAL COUNCILS

Regional Councils are functioning in five regional constituencies viz., Western (Bombay), Eastern (Calcutta), Southern (Madras), Central (Kanpur) and Northern (New Delhi).

During the year, the most important event was the convening of a Conference of the Chairmen of Regional Councils at New Delhi on 12th and 13th March, 1965, with a view to achieving co-ordination in the work of the Institute at the Centre and the Regions and for providing an opportunity for discussion and planning out details of the Institute's programme in respect of the professional developmental activities. The Conference was attended by the Chairmen and Secretaries of all the Regions and was a great success.

A Conference of Chartered Accountants in the Eastern Region was held at Calcutta on 20th and 21st March, 1965, on the principal theme "Accountants in Developing Economy".

The Southern India Region has started an intensified course on Management Accountancy.

In the Western India Region several lectures and talks on different subjects of interest were arranged. Symposia on Companies Amendment Bill and Taxation were also held. The topics discussed at these symposia were as under :—

Symposium on Companies Bill—

- Provisions other than relating to Accounting & Auditing;
- Provisions relating to Accounting; and
- Provisions relating to Auditing.

Symposium on Taxation—

- Simplification of Income Tax Law;
- Tax Incentives;
- Tax Evasion; and

Taxation of Business Income—Law and Equity.

For the first time in the history of Northern India Regional Council, a symposium was organised outside Delhi. The Symposium on "Taxation and Management Accounting" was held at Ludhiana on 11th April, 1965.

Branches of Regional Councils :

Four branches in Southern India region viz. Bangalore, Coimbatore, Hyderabad and Madurai and two in Western India Region viz. Ahmedabad & Poona are also functioning. They also held some lectures and study circle-meetings in their respective places.

Filling up of seats by co-option :

According to the existing Regulations, any seat left unfilled on a Regional Council or any casual vacancy in the Regional Council has to be filled up by the long drawn out and expensive procedure of a fresh election. To simplify this, the Council has decided that hereafter, any unfilled seat or casual vacancy may or may not be filled up at the Council's discretion and in case the Council decides that this be filled up, it shall be done by co-option by the Regional Council concerned in consultation with and approval of the Council. Amendments to give effect to this decision have been made in the Regulations.

VII. AWARD FOR THE BEST PRESENTED ACCOUNTS

During the year, 160 entries as compared to 146 in the previous year were received for the award for best presented accounts,

The annual report and the statements of accounts of the Indian Cable Company Limited for the year ended 31st March 1964 were adjudged the best and those of the undermentioned companies were considered the next best, but their rankings, 'inter se' was not fixed :—

1. Philips India Limited for the year ended 31st December 1963.
2. Mukand Iron and Steel Works Ltd., for the year ended 31st March 1964.
3. Hindustan Antibiotics Ltd., for the year ended 31st March 1964.

The Indian Cable Company Limited was awarded the Shield and the other three companies were awarded Copper Plaques.

VIII. PROFESSIONAL MATTERSA. Professional Development Committee :

On the recommendation of the Professional Development Committee, the Council at its 42nd meeting considered the question of laying down the broad basis on which members should charge fees for different types of work. The Council recommended that while charging the fees for different types of work, the members should take the following factors into consideration :—

1. The time devoted to carry out a particular work.
2. The cost involved in doing that work.
3. The level professional expertise.
4. The responsibility involved in carrying out the work.

The above recommendation of the Council was published in December, 1964 issue of the Journal.

The Council has accepted in principle the recommendation of the Professional Development Committee that a suitable Notification should be issued to indicate the circumstances under which a member employed in an industrial or commercial establishment would be held liable for gross negligence in the performance of his duties. The notification will be issued shortly.

In view of the uniformed criticism of the profession made in some quarters, the Council has requested the Professional Development Committee to outline the steps that should be taken for putting the true image of the profession before the public and various authorities.

The Professional Development Committee and the Council of the Institute considered in detail the question of inclusion of the proprietary firms of Chartered Accountants on the Panel of Auditors maintained by the Comptroller & Auditor General of India for the purpose of appointment of Auditors of Government companies. A suitable representation has been made to the Comptroller and Auditor General of India.

The Committee is actively engaged in preparation of a scheme of the Staff Training Programme.

B. Taxation Committee :

The Institute submitted a very comprehensive pre-budget memorandum to the Government. This memorandum was published for the information of the members in April 1965 issue of the Institute's Journal 'The Chartered Accountant'. After the budget for the year 1965-66 was presented to the Parliament, the Institute submitted a representation to the Government on the Finance Bill 1965-66 (published in June 1965 issue of the 'The Chartered Accountant'). The above representations are annexed as Appendices "F" and "G".

The President along with a few members of the Council called on the Finance Minister on 9th May 1965, who requested to submit the Council's suggestions regarding the tax matters so as to reach him by the middle of July 1965.

Representations were also submitted to the Government regarding Wealth Tax Act, Annuity Deposit Scheme, Abolition of Income-tax Appellate Tribunal, Payment of interest under Deferred Payment contracts and the Advertisement Rules. The representation made to the Government and the reply received from the Government regarding Annuity Deposit Scheme were published in the December 1964 and March 1965 issues and the representation regarding the payment of interest under Deferred Payment Contracts along with the Government's reply thereto were published in the December 1964 issue of 'The Chartered Accountant'.

The correspondence exchanged on the subject of Annuity Deposit Scheme and payment of interest under deferred payment contracts is annexed as Appendix "H".

During the year, following two books on matters relating to taxation were published :—

- (i) 'Taxation of Non-residents'.
- (ii) 'Finance Act, 1964'.

Levy of Gift Tax under Gifts Tax Act

The attention of the Council was drawn to large number of cases in which the Income-tax Department had started proceedings against members of professional bodies, particularly chartered accounts and lawyers, under Gifts Tax Act where junior assistants working in professional firms and other promising young persons were admitted as partners, without charging goodwill. A representation was made to Government in this behalf. A copy of the representation and the Government reply are reproduced in Appendix "I".

C. Research Committee :

The Research Committee had referred certain questions of general interest to the members, arising out of some of the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956, to Shri M. C. Setalvad, former Attorney General of India and Mr. A. A. S. Rae, then a senior partner of Messrs. Crawford Bayley & Co., Solicitors for opinion. A booklet embodying the Case for Opinion submitted and the Counsel's Opinion thereon entitled "Opinion regarding certain provisions of the Companies Act, 1956" was published and distributed to the members free of charge to form a part of the Members' Handbook. The Committee wishes to place on record its appreciation of the valuable time and efforts devoted, without any charge, by Mr. Rae to this work, and greatly esteems this service rendered to our profession and to the Institute by a distinguished member of the sister profession of law.

The two projects on "Price Fixation" and "Comparative Study of Direct Taxation in Selected Countries" undertaken jointly with the Indian Merchants' Chamber and the Association of Indian Trade and Industry, Bombay, respectively, are in course of being finalised and are expected to be published shortly.

Two other studies on "Valuation of Unquoted Shares" and "Bank Accounts & Audit" are under active consideration of Sub-Committees appointed for this purpose.

The Research Project for collection of statistics of qualified reports given by Chartered Accountants has made considerable progress. Certain members of the Institute have been given the special assignment of studying the files in the Officers of Registrars of Companies for collecting the details. After the material has been collected, it will be suitably published with a view to bringing out statistically that Chartered Accountants are performing their duties to the shareholders without fear or favour and with a due sense of responsibility. The Committee has decided to award the Nanubhai V. Desai Research Scholarship of the value of Rs. 1,000 per year to the members engaged in this work at Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

With a view encouraging research by individuals, the Committee has invited applications for financial assistance from persons (including non-members) engaged or intending to be engaged in research on accounting and other allied subjects approved by the Committee. Studies concerning maintenance of records relating to use of material, labour and other production facilities in industries engaged in production, processing, manufacturing or mining activities and problems connected with audit of such records, particularly in the light of cost audit, have been welcomed. Certain applications in this behalf have been received and are under consideration.

The Committee is also encouraging research carried on by the Regional Councils and their branches and is willing even to finance some of the projects. Recently it has approved an expenditure not exceeding Rs. 2,500/- being incurred by the Ahmedabad Branch of the Western India Regional Council for research on Inter-Firm Comparison of the financial working of the following three industries in India :

1. Engineering Industry.
2. Heavy Chemical Industry.
3. Electricity Companies.

A letter was received from Government regarding the treatment in the accounts of companies of the accruing liability for gratuity contingently payable at future dates to employees. The matter is under discussion.

During the year under report, Mr. N. R. Mody, who had served with distinction as the Chairman of the Research Committee for the past several years tendered his resignation from this office, pursuant to his resignation from the Council on taking up an assignment abroad. The Committee wishes to place on record its appreciation of the very valuable services rendered by Mr. Mody as the Chairman over this long period.

D. Post Graduate Course Committee :

During the year, the Committee carried out several activities for promoting the interest of the members in the subject of Management Accounting. The Committee organised a Residential Course at Bombay and an All India Seminar on Management Accounting at Delhi. The Committee has also organised Coaching Classes for members on Management Accounting and published seminar reports.

Residential Course in Management Accounting.

The Second Residential Course was held at Bombay at the Training Centre of Messrs. Hindustan Lever Ltd., from 18th January to 30th January 1965 and was attended by 46 persons sponsored by various organisations in the country. Faculty for the course were composed of persons with high academic qualifications and wide experience. Visiting foreign faculty professors from national institutions and top executives from industries were invited for this course. The Course was inaugurated by Shri R. G. Saraiya, Chairman, Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation, Bombay.

At the course, papers and Case studies on the following topics were presented by the Faculty members :—

- Capital Budgeting
- Operational Research
- Linear Programming and other Statistical methods in planning and decision making
- Information for Management
- Cash Forecasting
- Ratio and Funds flow analysis
- Cost of Capital
- Work-study and Performance budgeting
- Working Capital Management
- Principles of Standard Costing and Problems in Installing and operation of the system
- Principles of Budgetary Control and Problems in practical implementation of the system
- Interfirm Comparisons
- Cost—An introduction to analysis
- Programming of Interdependent activities
- Some Analytical Tools for Capital Budgeting
- Managerial Economics and Management Accounting

The Guest Speakers invited to the Course also presented papers on a variety of interesting topics.

All India Seminar on Management Accounting.

The sixth All India Seminar was held from 26th to 28th February 1965 at New Delhi. It was inaugurated by Hon'ble Shri T. N. Singh, Union Minister for Industry, and was attended by 63 Participants and 11 Observers. The closing session of the Seminar was addressed by Shri Tarlok Singh, Member, Planning Commission.

The subject "Management of Working Capital" was discussed at the seminar under the following two parts :—

- (i) "Assessment of Working Capital" and
- (ii) "Control of Working Capital".

Examination & Practical Training.

(a) Members have begun to evince keen interest in the Post Graduate Examinations in Management Accounting. In November 1964, 5 members appeared in Group I and 4 members appeared in Group II of the examination out of which 2 candidates passed in Group I and 3 candidates passed in Group II. It is expected that the number will increase with the extension of coaching classes in important cities.

(b) Fifteen members are now engaged in practical training. In the preparation of their thesis, they are being guided by the top executives from industries.

(c) The Institute in Collaboration with the Calcutta Productivity Council organised a 3 week part-time Course in Management Accounting in Calcutta from 10th to 27th May, 1965. 32 participants attended the Course.

(d) The Southern India Regional Council of the Institute is conducting classes for the benefit of members intending to appear in the Management Accounting Examination.

Reports .

The reports of the Fourth All India Seminar held at Lucknow during February 1963 and Fifth All India Seminar held at Bangalore during February 1964 were published. The report of the Sixth All India Seminar is under preparation.

Study Team.

The Committee collaborated with the National Productivity Council in making a survey of Management Accounting practices in Medium and Small size undertakings. The team after visiting various industrial organisations throughout the country will submit a report.

Course on "Secretaryship and Management".

The Syllabus of the Post Graduate Course in "Secretaryship & Management" is under consideration and will be finalised shortly.

E. Committee for establishing liaison with the Universities.

On comparing the syllabi in certain papers prescribed for B.Com. and similar degree examinations of several Universities with those in same subjects for the Intermediate Examination of the Institute, the Committee has made certain recommendations which are under consideration of the Council.

This Committee was set up some years ago after the publication of the Rao Committee's report on Commercial Education.

The Committee is actively considering the following matters :—

- (i) Determining whether commerce courses provided by the different universities in the country were adequate for developing the background of knowledge required for the Chartered Accountants Course and where any modification was considered necessary, advising the universities to strengthen their courses or methods of instructions, especially in professional subjects;
- (ii) advising universities and other statutory bodies in framing of syllabi for commerce courses leading up to the courses provided by the Institute; and
- (iii) watching the developments of the courses in different universities in Accounting, Auditing, Management Accounting, Cost Accounting and other allied subjects and recommending to the Examination Committee where considered necessary that the syllabi of papers in these subjects for the Institute's examinations, be suitably altered.

F. Expert Advisory Committee :

During the year, ten queries were referred to the Committee. Out of these, five were replied to, two are under consideration and the remaining three were not considered suitable for being answered by the Committee. The answers to queries which were of general interest were printed in the Institute's Journal along with the queries, for the information of the members.

G. Ad Hoc Committee for dealing with Unjustifiable removal of auditors :

During the year, no complaint was received by the Committee.

H. Journal of the Institute :

In June 1965, the Journal completed the thirteenth year of its existence. Shri M. P. Chitale, Vice-President of the Institute, is the Editor-in-chief.

During the year, a Part-time Sub-Editor and an Editorial Assistant assisted the Editorial Board in the discharge of its responsibilities.

Steps are being taken to improve the quality of the Journal by the publication of articles on a wide variety of subjects and addition of special features.

From the January 1965, issue a new feature has been started by which the President shares his ideas with the members of the Institute on topics affecting the profession. This new feature has been welcomed by the members.

In order to help the Articled and Audit Clerks, the "Students' Page" is now published as Supplement to the journal so that it can be utilised to the maximum benefit by the Articled and Audit Clerks.

During the year, the circulation of the Journal increased from 7,800 to 9,000 per month.

IX. OTHER MATTERS

A. Appearance of chartered accountants before the Companies Tribunal to represent clients :

With the setting up of the Companies Tribunal, a representation was made to Government that while framing the rules of procedure regarding its functioning, a provision should be made permitting chartered accountants to appear before it to represent their clients. It was pointed out that they are already representing clients under the provisions of various Direct Tax Laws as also the various Sales Tax Law. As there was some doubt about the meaning of the provision actually made in the said Rules in this behalf, a clarification was sought from the authorities. They have clarified that the Explanation to Regulation 2(viii) of the Companies Tribunal Regulations 1964, gives an additional right to the Chartered Accountants to appear before the Tribunal for a limited purpose of explaining the accounts. However, for doing so, a member must have a limited Power of Attorney from his client and seek leave of the Tribunal. This Explanation, however, does not curtail the right of a Chartered Accountant to appear before the Tribunal and act on behalf of the party if the parties so desire.

B. Membership Income-tax Practitioners' and Sales Tax Practitioners' Associations :

The Council had decided in September 1953 that it was not desirable for members of the Institute to become members of any Income-tax Practitioners' Association in which non-chartered accountants or Income-tax practitioners as defined in the income-tax Act, are members, notwithstanding the absence of any statutory prohibition.

On a reconsideration of the matter in the light of representations made by certain members, the Council has decided that hereafter there would be no objection to members of the Institute becoming members of Income-tax Practitioners' Associations or Sales Tax Practitioners' Associations. However, it should be noted that during the course of their professional activities the members should not describe themselves as Income-tax practitioners or Sales-tax practitioners.

C. Method of collection of Fees :

Prior to September 1964, Membership, Examination and other fees payable to the Institute were being collected through the Branches of the Central Bank of India Ltd., all over the country. Since the system was found to have certain shortcomings, from September 1964 arrangement has been made for the collection of fees at the Institute's office itself.

D. Increase in Fees :

During the last few years, the tempo of the professional developmental activities of the Institute has considerably increased, both at the central as well as at the regional levels. To help in the speedy implementation of the Council's various schemes, Regional Secretariats have been set up at Bombay, Calcutta and Madras under the charge of full-time Assistant Secretaries. The Council has also increased its activities in the field of publications of general interest to the profession. Further, there has been a general increase in the prices and the cost of service that is being provided by the Institute to members, as well as to the students, has gone up in the recent times.

Having regard to all these factors, the Council decided to increase fees in the following manner :—

	From Rs.	To Rs.
Membership Fees:
(a) Certificate of Practice fee for both Associates and Fellows	28	50
(b) Regional Council fee	6	10
Registration Fees:
(a) Articled Clerks	30	40
(b) Audit Clerks	20	30
Examination Fees:
(a) Preliminary Examination	27	30
(b) Intermediate Examination	52	55
(c) Final Examination (One Group)	52	55
(d) Final Examination (Both Groups)	77	80

Necessary amendments in the Chartered Accountants Regulations have been made.

E. Members' Handbook :

It was mentioned in the last report that in order to help the members to keep important publications of the Institute in one place, the Council had issued to them, free of charge, a binder to serve as their Handbook in which they could keep all important publications of the Institute. At that time, only one publication viz., "Statement on Auditing Practices" had been issued for being kept therein. Subsequently, another booklet entitled "Opinion regarding certain provisions of the Companies Act 1956" as also two booklets containing the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949 and the (new) Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964 have been issued for being made a part of the Handbook. These booklets were supplied free of charge to the members.

F. Chartered Accountants Act and Regulations :

Pursuant to the announcement made in the last report, two booklets containing the Chartered Accountants Act 1949 and the (new) Chartered Accountants Regulations 1964 were printed and supplied, free of charge, to members of the Institute for being made a part of the members' Handbook.

G. History of the Profession :

As already reported, to commemorate the completion of the first fifty years of existence of the Accountancy Profession in this country, the Council has decided to publish the history of the growth and development of the profession during the period. Shri G. P. Kapadia, the first President of the Institute, has been requested by the Council to prepare the History. A major part of the background material required for this purpose has been collected and supplied to Shri Kapadia. Relevant information and material has also been collected from the old records lying in the Institute's office, Government departments and the National Archives of India. It is expected that a draft would be ready sometimes by the middle of the next year.

H. Company Law Amendment Committee.

The Council appointed this Committee in September 1964. The names of its members are given in Section I of this Report

The Committee was charged with the task of offering views and suggestions on the various provisions of the Companies (Second Amendment) Bill, 1964, to the Parliament and its Select Committee, on behalf of the Institute.

The Committee submitted a Memorandum of observations on the Bill to the Chairman of the Company Law Board when its members met him on 16th November, 1964.

On the Bill being referred to a Select Committee of both the Houses of Parliament, the Committee submitted another Memorandum to the Select Committee and its members also appeared before it on 19-1-1965 for the purpose of giving oral evidence.

I. Recognition of the Institute's membership by Universities and Government as equivalent to a graduate degree :

The Council is happy to announce that the Banaras Hindu University has decided that Chartered Accountants holding a graduate degree of a recognised university be considered as equivalent to the M.Com. Degree for purposes of enrolment as Ph.D. Research Scholars in Commerce. This decision has been communicated to the other universities for their recognition. It has also been urged that if a Chartered Accountant holding a graduate degree could be considered equivalent to M. Com., if he is not a Graduate, his being a member of the Institute should be considered equivalent to a graduate degree.

A representation has also been made to the Ministries of Education and Home Affairs of the Government of India for recognition of the membership of the Institute as equivalent to a graduate degree.

J. Representation to the Fourth Finance Commission :

On receipt of a questionnaire from the Fourth Finance Commission, a representation was submitted by the Council. After submission of the representation, the President along with the Secretary of the Institute had a meeting with the Member-Secretary of the Finance Commission when it was suggested that the Council of the Institute should draft out the forms of the financial statement which could be adopted uniformly by all the States displaying details in a manner which should be self-revealing. The proforma of the forms of the financial statement were prepared by Shri H. B. Dhondy, Acting Chairman of the Research Committee and submitted to the Fourth Finance Commission sometime in May 1965. On receipt of this proforma, the Finance Commission expressed the desire to discuss the issues with the representatives of the Institute. The President along with a few members of the Council had a meeting with the members of the Finance Commission on 8th June, 1965 when the forms of financial statements were discussed in great detail. The proforma of the forms of financial statement are annexed as Appendix "J."

K. Representation of Chartered Accountants on the Planning Council set up by the Planning Commission.

During the year representations were made to the Hon'ble Prime Minister of India and the Deputy Chairman of the Planning Commission requesting that in view of the valuable services which Chartered Accountants can render in formulating policies of the Government in promoting economic and industrial development of the country, a representative of the profession should be nominated on the Planning Council set up by the Planning Commission. The authorities have replied to say that our requests have been taken note of.

L. Emergency Risks (Goods) Insurance Act and Emergency Risks (Factories) Insurance Act :

The Secretary to the Government of India in the Ministry of Finance, Department of Company Affairs and Insurance, brought to the notice of the Council that as a result of the review of the operations of the aforementioned Acts and the schemes promulgated thereunder, which came into force with effect from 1st January, 1963, they had found that there has been a significant evasion on the part of both goods establishments and factories, of their obligation to insure. He added that it would help them very much in their task of enforcement, if the Council could issue instructions to the members who are concerned with the auditing of accounts to verify at the time of their audit whether the provisions of these schemes had been complied with by the parties concerned.

The suggestion has been accepted by the Council and a recommendation to this effect has been issued. This was published in August, 1965 issue of "The Chartered Accountant" besides being sent individually to every member of the Institute. The recommendation is also reproduced in Appendix "K".

M. Prosecution under section 24 :

During the last few years, a number of cases have come to the Council's notice where unqualified persons had masqueraded as member of the Institute. For protection of the members and for upholding the reputation and dignity of the profession, legal proceedings were launched against such persons under Section 24 of the Chartered Accountants Act and convictions were obtained against two persons. To other against whom proceedings were instituted have absconded and have been declared "proclaimed offenders".

N. Council's Nominees on other Bodies :

The President, Shri Raghu Nath Rai has been appointed as the Institute's nominee on the General Council of the Institute of Applied Manpower Research.

Shri S. N. Desai attended meetings of the National Productivity Council as a special invitee, on behalf of the Institute.

Shri R. Venkatesan continued to represent the Institute on the All India Board of Technical Studies in Management.

Shri R. M. Lal has been nominated to represent the Institute on the All India Board of Technical Studies in Commerce, in place of Shri R. V. Aiyar.

P. S. Vaidyanath Aiyar Memorial Fund :

Memorial lectures on subjects of professional interest as in the past were organised by the Fund at the Regional Headquarters as per details given below :—

Name of the Regional Council.	Subject & Name of the Speaker
Western India	Some aspects of Educational Planning for India—Dr. V. K. R. V. Rao. Some thoughts on Planning for India—Shri N. Dandekar.
Southern India	Economic Development & Tax Structure in India—Prof. K. Vasudevan. Taxation and Fundamental Rights—Shri M. K. Nambiar. Taxation in Fourth Planning—Dr. B. Natarajan.
Eastern India	Social Accounting—Shri S. Sen Gupta (Three lectures).
Central India	Changing concept of Auditor's duties—Shri P. S. Bhargava. Recent Trends in Legislation affecting Commerce & Industry—Shri H. B. Dhondy.
Northern India	Responsibilities of Chartered Accountants—Shri R. C. Dutt. The Role of Chartered Accountants in Company Management—Mr. Justice S. K. Kapur.

On a consideration of the extent of interest these evoked in the commercial community, it has been decided that these be thrown open to public and advertised extensively.

The resources of the Fund continued to be meagre and as a result, the expenses were in excess of the income by Rs. 885.40 P. The deficit has been substantially covered up by raising special contributions from some of the members. In April, a Charity show was organised in Delhi jointly with Benevolent Fund. Out of the proceeds of the show, a sum of Rs. 4554/- was received by the Fund. To commemorate the occasion, it has been decided to award two scholarships during 1965-66 each of the value of Rs. 50/- per mensem to students undergoing training in the Northern India Region.

In the last report, it was mentioned that M/s. S. Vaidyanath Aiyar & Co., Chartered Accountants, New Delhi, had instituted two scholarships each of Rs. 50/- per mensem, tenable for one year. For the year 1964-65, these scholarships were awarded to two students undergoing training in the territories comprised in the Northern India Regional Constituency and for 1965-66, these will be awarded to students undergoing training in the territories comprised in the Central India Regional Constituency. In the years to come these scholarships will be annually rotated one after the other among the residents in the territories comprised of other regional constituencies.

Q. Chartered Accountants Benevolent Fund :

During the year, the resources of the Fund increased though not very significantly; the total assets increased to Rs. 8,567/- as compared to Rs. 7,580/- as at the end of the previous year. The number of the members also rose from 109 to 122.

Only two applications for financial assistance were received during the year and stipends aggregating to Rs. 1500/- were paid.

In pursuance to the decision of the Managing Committee to augment the resources of the Fund, a Charity

Show was organised jointly with S. Vaidyanath Aiyar Memorial Fund in Delhi early in April 1965. The Fund's share out of the proceeds of the show amounted to Rs. 18,216/-. It is proposed to organise similar shows in other big towns of the country as well as to further build up the resources of the Fund.

X. FINANCES

(a) Accounts.—The Balance Sheet as at 31st March, 1965 and the Income & Expenditure Account for the year ended on that date duly audited are appended hereto. The Income and Expenditure Account for the year shows an excess of expenditure over income amounting to Rs. 2,15,971, as against excess of expenditure over income amounting to Rs. 21,443 in the preceding year.

As required by the Chartered Accountants Regulations and the various rules, directions, etc., the accounts of the Regional Councils and their branches, the Students' Associations and their branches have been incorporated in the accounts of the Central Council.

(b) Auditors.—Sarvashri P. R. Mehra and M. R. Venkataraman continued to act as auditors for the year ended 31st March 1965.

XI OBITUARYA. Homage to Shri Jawaharlal Nehru :

The Council when it met for the first time in September, 1964 after the death of the Prime Minister, Shri Jawaharlal Nehru, passed the following resolution and the members observed silence for one minute in honour of the departed soul :—

"The Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, places on record its deep sense of profound sorrow at the National calamity in the death of our Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and prays that the Almighty Lord grant eternal peace to the soul of our departed beloved leader, who is no more with us.

The Council joins most humbly in the tributes paid by national leaders and world statesmen to Panditji the great fighter of our freedom struggle, the main architect of modern India and above all a noble soul and lover of peace in every nook and corner of the world.

The Council solemnly pledges to carry on its work for the betterment of the nation that was so beloved of late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. It further gives its solemn pledge that it shall never fight shy of truth when it is dangerous, nor make alliance with falsehood, when it would be convenient; but shall always strive for the betterment of the nation by the cleanest possible practices.

May his soul rest in eternal peace.

The President is requested to send a copy of this resolution to the members of the bereaved family and to the Government of India".

B. At the same meeting, the Council also noted with deep regret the sad demise of Mr. Percy F. Carpenter who was the President of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales in 1962-63. The members stood in silence for one minute in memory of the departed soul.

C. The Council at its meeting held in October 1965, noted with deep regret the sad and untimely demise of Shri B. K. Kaul, ICS, a past member of the Council, and passed the following resolution. The members stood in silence for one minute in memory of the departed soul.

"The Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India places on record its deep sense of sorrow at the sad and sudden demise of Shri B. K. Kaul, ICS, on the 30th June, 1965 at the age of 48.

Shri Kaul was a nominated member of the Council during the years 1952-54. During this period, he was closely associated with the work of the Institute and contributed a great deal to the development and advancement of the Institute and the profession of Chartered Accountants.

Shri Kaul was an officer of great brilliance exceptional abilities and unfailing energy. The country has lost in him one of its ablest administrators.

May his soul rest in eternal peace.

The President is requested to send a copy of the resolution to the bereaved family."

The Council records with deep regret the sad demise of the following members since the last report :—

Disciplinary Action Against Members

Finding of the Council

Reprimand

(1) A member was found guilty of misconduct falling under Part I of the First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949 within the meaning of clauses (2), (3) and (6) respectively for (1) sharing of fees with a non-chartered accountant; (2) accepting the position of auditor without communicating to the previous auditors; and (3) advertising in the Newspapers that the telephone had been shifted.

After hearing the member, the Council reprimanded him severely in the hope that he would in future not give another occasion for any such complaint.

(2) A member was found guilty of misconduct under clause (3) of Part III of the First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949 for not complying with the requirement asked for by the Council, viz., to confirm to the Institute's office that a paid assistant who was working with him left his services. After giving the member an opportunity to be heard, the Council reprimanded him.

Warning

A member was found guilty of misconduct under clauses (6) and (7) of Part I of the First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949 for having issued certain circular letters soliciting clients and professional work using therein the designation "Industrial and Management Consultants" in addition to the designation "Chartered Accountants". After considering the written representation of the member, the Council gave a warning.

A Member acquitted by the High Court

In one case, the Council having found the member guilty of professional misconduct coming under Section 22 but falling outside the Schedules had recommended to the High Court removal of his name for one year. The charge against the member was that he audited the accounts of a Trust for the second time on retirement from a firm of chartered accountants after dissolution of the firm. Soon after the dissolution the Trustees appointed the respondent who had taken to practise as a chartered accountant on his own as the auditor in respect of the same accounts. As the Balance Sheet and Accounts of the Trust were previously signed subject to certain queries to be answered by the Trustees regarding certain omissions and defects, the respondent assumed that there was still some auditing to be done in regard to the Trust's affairs and accordingly accepted the post. He took account of the Trustees' explanations in regard to the defects and omissions that the outgoing auditors had pointed out and gave a fresh audit report and took a fee of Rs. 500. According to the complainant, the respondent had persuaded the Trustees to appoint him literally for doing nothing and actually for what he had already done as a partner in the firm before it was dissolved with the sole purpose that he would get the fee of Rs. 500 actually payable to the partnership firm. According to the High Court the real position seemed to be that the Trustees themselves wanted the loose ends to be cleared or in other words wanted the audit to take note of the measures they had adopted to remove the defects already pointed out. On that view they were certainly justified in asking that there should be an audit over again in the light of the new resolutions and corrections. Once they decided it, it was their lookout to fix the fee. Considering that Rs. 500 had been fixed as the fees for the audit originally another Rs. 500 for the present job did appear to be somewhat generous. But there was nothing to indicate that the respondent had put improper pressure on the Trustees. So the mere fact of the respondent now working on his own accepting a second job from the same Trustees could not be called a misconduct in itself. The High Court held that there was no case made out for a punishment by the Court.

Findings of the Council quashed by the High Court

In one case of "information" under Section 21 of the Act the Disciplinary Committee found on enquiry that the charges against a member had not been substantiated. The Committee however found two more instances of professional misconduct against the respondent which were not part of the allegations in the letter of 'Information' received against the respondent.

The High Court held that the Disciplinary Committee could not have proceeded to an enquiry against the respondent on the new charges (a) without the same having been made the subject of reference by the Council after the latter had done its duty under Sub-section (1) of Section 21 of the Act; and (b) without in any case, even though the Disciplinary Committee could add the charges but then the same had to be clear and specific and made known to the respondent enabling him to answer the same, to rebut the material or evidence in support of the same and to produce defence with regard to it which had not happened in this case. So the findings of the Council based on the report of the Disciplinary Committee as regards professional misconduct by the respondent were quashed.

The appeal against the case reported last time where the member found guilty by the Council was acquitted by the High Court is still pending in the Supreme Court.

Pre-Budget Memorandum to the Finance Minister

The Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India submits the following Memorandum, with the hope that the issues raised in it will receive consideration by the Finance Minister while formulating his Budget proposals for 1965-66.

Events subsequent to the passing of the tax measures in February 1964 have belied the hopes entertained at that time of effecting a revival of the Indian economy. The rate of growth has not been satisfactory and production has failed to come up to the expected levels. The agricultural sector has remained stagnant and has been causing moments of grave anxiety. Unemployment and under-employment have been on the increase and no noticeable improvement in the living standards has been achieved. The recent rise in prices have taken alarming proportions and, therefore, a need has arisen for a reappraisal of the old methods and values and the adoption of a more pragmatic approach to economic problems.

It may be recalled that the last comprehensive enquiry into the system of taxation in this country was completed in 1954 by the Taxation Enquiry Commission. Since then significant events have occurred in the attempts at gearing the economy. The Second and Third Five Year Plans have almost fully run their course. The draft of the Fourth Plan is now getting finalised. Following a study by Mr. Nicholas Kaldor, an array of taxes, impressive both in their number as well as in their content, have been levied. The Income-tax Act of 1922 has been replaced by the Act of 1961. The administrative set-up dealing with the integrated tax structure in the field of Direct Taxation has also been subjected to a comprehensive study by the Direct Taxes Administration Enquiry Committee. Every year near about the Budget time views are exchanged with the Treasury and the contents of the Budget and the various proposals get critically analysed. In spite of all this, even a cursory study of the intervening 10 years brings out the lack of cohesion between programme and performance. The continuous surplus, both in revenues and expenditure, over declared official estimates has been a disquieting annual feature. So has been the increasing dependence of the States on the Centre for resources, while being in arrears all the time as far as repayments are concerned. The levies of the Central Government have invariably been on the non-agricultural sector of the economy and the States have by and large hardly done much in implementing the suggestions of the Taxation Enquiry Commission in respect of their own fields of taxation. This has served to distort application of the known and accepted canons of taxation and the goal of social justice becomes more difficult of attainment. The country has now an adequately long period of experience in the field of planning. In the light of these, it occurs to us that the issue is no longer of finding resources for the Plans, but a reappraisal of the whole structure of public expenditure and taxation, both at the Central and the State levels. The immediate requirement is, therefore, the initiation of an integrated economic policy which would result in the stimulation of savings and investment and quicken the pace of economic development.

We, therefore, propose that a high-powered Commission, manned by experts, may be appointed immediately, with wide enough terms of reference to conduct a study of the whole structure of both public expenditure and taxation, of the ways and means position of the Government and the economy of India as a whole, leading to suggestions which will have lasting value for years to come.

We would like to repeat our previous submission that there should be a greater degree of certainty with regard to Tax Legislation. Instead of effecting major amendments every year affecting the very base of Taxation in fact such changes are now being made even more than once during a year—the policy may be laid down for a full Plan period, so that both the administration as well as the assesses get time to understand and appreciate the implications of the significant changes that are being effected. Certainty as a cannon of taxation knows no limitation in time and judged from the points of view of both the administration as well as the tax-payers, its utility cannot be minimised. Where the frequency of changes in these vital provisions gets increased, it creates a large degree of imbalance in the economy, leading to distortion of its image. Therefore, we submit that there should no longer be frequent changes either in the basis of the levies or in the rates of tax, except for the reduction which we are suggesting in the following paragraph. The broad policy in the field of Taxation for the entire Fourth Plan period should, therefore, be announced simultaneously with the Plan.

We submit once again that we are one with the Government in condemning the evil of tax evasion. In this context, we would like to stress once more that the prevalent rates of taxes are partly responsible for the mutual distrust which is in existence between the tax-collectors and the tax-payers. Due to increase in taxation, the income, even in terms of money, has got reduced. Due to various taxes and duties as well as the general inflationary trend, the purchasing power of money is reduced. The cumulative result is that a person needs more money for equivalent goods, commodities, etc. This has driven people to tax avoidance as well as tax evasion. It is, therefore, necessary that tax rates are revised in such a manner that the incentive for evasion and avoidance disappears. We genuinely feel that, even with a reduction in the existing tax rates, in subsequent years, there will be substantial additions to the coffers of the State. With the gearing of the administrative machinery, the buoyancy in the economy is bound to be reflected in collections of tax and the absence of any fresh levy and a noticeable reduction in the rates of taxes will definitely improve the economic climate in the country. The experience of countries like the U.S.A. and Japan clearly shows that a phased plan of reduction in direct taxes improves the vitality of the economy and adds to the revenues of the State.

Apart from these general submissions, to which we attach the utmost importance, we also wish to place before you for your consideration certain suggestions with regard to specific provisions of the various Direct Taxes Acts, which are discussed in the succeeding paragraphs.

The Income-tax Act

Section 10(6)

One of the conditions for exemption of remuneration received by an employee of a foreign enterprise is that the employer should not be engaged in any trade or business in India. We are aware of many instances where foreign companies send their qualified staff for inspecting their Indian branches. On a strict interpretation of the provisions of the Act, such persons are liable to be taxed if their stay exceeds 90 days. It is submitted that this entails an undue hardship and, therefore, the provisions may be amended to indicate clearly that such persons, namely, employees of a foreign enterprise who come to India on short visits and only for inspection of their branch offices in India, would be exempt from income-tax.

Section 10(27)

Exemption has been granted by Finance Act, 1964 to income derived from a business of livestock breeding, or poultry or dairy farming, for the assessment years 1965-66 to 1967-68. It is not clear what exactly is meant by dairy farming. If it is to apply to a business owning the cattle fed on its own fields and doing dairy business thereon the exemption is already there as this would be agricultural income. It is therefore, suggested that this exemption be granted to income derived from a business of dairy products, by the dairy engaged in manufacturing of such products. In the alternative, it is suggested that Section 81(i) dealing with the income of co-operative societies be enlarged so as to cover such co-operative societies who manufacture dairy products and deal in the same. This exemption will serve two purposes, viz., promotion of co-operative activities and expansion of dairying business in the country.

Section 23—Income from house property

The explanation to Section 23 indicates that, in respect of property, the construction of which was completed after 1st of April 1950, only half the taxes levied by any local authority would be allowed. The burden of taxation on properties has been continuously on the increase. Under the law as it stands, the notional income from properties taxed in the hands of an assessee is generally higher than the actual income received. We submit that it would, therefore, only be fair that the full amount of taxes levied by local authorities are allowed as a deduction while computing the income under this head. Apart from this, we submit that provision should be made for full deduction of all reasonable actual outgoings while computing the income from properties, as is obtainable in the United Kingdom.

Exemption from Wealth-tax and Estate Duty is granted from the last year onwards in respect of one self-occupied residential house. We submit that such a complete exemption should be available for income-tax purposes also in respect of self-occupied properties or properties kept for the use of owners' own residence. In the alternative, relief may be granted up to a monetary limit of say Rs. 6,000.

There are many instances of companies whose only income is from house property. Expenses incurred by them in respect of items like salary, auditor's fees, fees paid to the Registrar of Companies, etc., are not allowable at present as the computation is made under Section C of Chapter 4. We submit that these being expenses necessarily incurred to enable the company to continue its corporate existence, provision should be made for allowing such expenses. We also submit that the expenses incurred in the shape of fees paid to Chartered Accountants for settlement of tax cases and tax appeals should be allowed as a permissible reduction even from sources other than business.

Section 32(1)(4)—Depreciation

This section allows depreciation allowance at 20% on buildings used solely for the purpose of residence of persons employed in the business and drawing a remuneration not exceeding Rs. 200 per month. It is suggested that, in view of the substantial increase in prices and wages, the monetary limit regarding the remuneration may be increased from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500. Simultaneously, in such cases, depreciation should also be allowed in instances where the employer provides furniture to the employees.

Section 33—Development Rebate

Under the provisions of the Act as they stand at present, if an assessee has started a completely separate manufacturing division with separate books of accounts, etc., and subsequently forms a new company which takes over all the assets and liabilities of the division at their book values, the development rebate granted earlier in respect of the machineries of the division are liable to be withdrawn. This provision creates hardship in many genuine cases. The existing restriction is no doubt intended to discourage assessee's selling away units on which development rebate has been granted as a profit later on. But when a new company is constituted for carrying on the business carried on by the separate division of an existing company and the transfer is at book value the intention should not be understood as one for making any profit. Such a transaction is analogous to the case of amalgamation of a company in which case the development rebate is not withdrawn. It is submitted that the law should be so modified that in the event of a transfer of the type indicated above where machinery or plant of a separate manufacturing division of an existing company gets transferred to a new company to whom all the assets and liabilities of the division have been transferred at book values, the development rebate allowed to the earlier company would not be withdrawn. The analogy we have mentioned with regard to the company would also apply in an instance where a firm having two or three departments engaged in different types of work decide to expand one of its departments and form a limited company for that purpose. It is suggested that in such cases, even if the partners are the shareholders in the newly formed company, the development rebate granted should not be withdrawn. This result could be obtained by adding a new Sub-section (5) to Section 33.

Development rebate being by its very nature an incentive to encourage investment in new machinery and plant, it should be capable of being carried forward till it is exhausted instead of being allowed to be carried forward as a loss for 8 years only. We recommend that necessary amendment of the legal provisions be made to bring about this result.

Another practical difficulty in regard to claiming development rebates is with regard to the year in which the prescribed reserve is to be created. According to the strict reading of the Section, development rebate is allowable only if the prescribed reserve is created during the year in which the said rebate is to be actually allowed. A possible interpretation of the requirements is that, if in a particular year there is a loss and a reserve is created in that year, it will be necessary again to create the reserve in the year in which the development rebate will be actually allowable. Some times there may be unintentional omissions on the part of assesses in doing this. It is, therefore, submitted that the Section may be amended suitably to provide that the reserve could be created either in the year of installation of the new plant and machinery or in the year in which the development rebate is actually allowed.

Section 35—Expenditure in scientific research

We submit that the explanation to Section 35 may be amended to include lumpsum payments for purchasing technical know-how, product know-how, etc., as part of the capital expenditure referred to in that Section. At this stage we would like to recall the submission made by us to the Government to the effect that amounts paid for technical know-how should be allowed as an item of expenditure from taxable income on the same basis as expenditure on scientific research.

Section 37—Entertainment expenses

Sub-section (2) of Section 37 links up the allowance of entertainment expenses with the profits earned by a company. This would mean that if a company has necessarily incurred entertainment expenses in the course of carrying on its business and had incurred a loss at end of the year, it would be put to the additional burden of having to bear this expenditure without it being allowed in the computation of its loss. This position appears to us to be most unfair and, therefore, we submit that the allowance of entertainment expenses should not be linked with the profits, but its allowance should be left to be decided by the assessing officer on the basis whether such expenses have been laid out or expended wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business. In this context, we also submit that the maximum limit placed at Rs. 60,000 is most inadequate in the case of big companies which have factories and offices all over India and even abroad.

Section 47

Section 47 allows a transfer of an asset by a principal company to the subsidiary company, without any liability for capital gains. It is submitted that even in a converse case i.e. transfer by a subsidiary company to the principal company, similar treatment be granted and no capital gains be charged.

Section 52—Consideration for transfer of assets in cases under assessment

Section 52 has been amended by the Finance Act, 1964, by the insertion of Sub-section (2). There appears to be an apparent contradiction between the two Sub-sections inasmuch as the intention to avoid or reduce tax liability has to be established under Sub-section (1) while there is no such requirement under Sub-section (2). The intention for introducing Sub-section (2) appears to have been the elimination of disputes regarding marginal cases up to 15%. While maintaining the original scheme of the provision, the amendment as worded should be modified with the intention to avoid or reduce tax liability being made a condition even for purposes of Sub-section (2). Even otherwise, as a sound legal principle, we submit that the requirement of proof regarding intent to defraud revenue should be a condition for application of Sub-section (2) as well.

Section 70 and 74—Set off or carry forward and set off of losses

Under Section 74 of the Act, the short-term capital losses can be set off in the year of accrual only against short-term capital gains and the balance, if any, of loss is to be carried forward to a subsequent year for set off of such losses against other items of income is not envisaged.

As the short-term capital gains are taxed at the same rate as applicable to any other item of income, it is submitted that an assessee should be allowed to set off short-term capital losses arising in any particular year either against short-term capital gains or against income under any other head. Section 70 should, therefore, be suitably amended.

Section 84 and 101—Income from newly established Industrial Undertakings or Hotels

The exemption of 6% of the capital employed in an industrial undertaking or a Hotel often does not become effective as, in the initial years of their existence on account of allowance of depreciation, development rebate, etc., the net result comes to a minus figure. Such losses, no doubt, are allowed to be carried forward, but it is submitted that the benefit of tax holiday for new industrial undertakings should not be allowed to become infructuous due to operation of other reliefs like development rebate. Therefore, the relief may be treated as a standard deduction on the lines of Excess Profits Tax Act and the losses after taking into account this standard deduction may be allowed to be carried forward as losses or as deficiency. That is to say, in the case of loss, the loss along with the standard deduction should be allowed to be carried forward. In the case of shortfall in profits against the standard deduction, the balance may be treated as a deficiency or loss and allowed to be carried forward. Alternatively, the period of tax holiday may be allowed to commence from the year in which the Industrial Undertaking or Hotel starts earning a net income after deduction of expenses inclusive of depreciation and development rebate.

We also submit that the tax holiday should be extended for a longer period, say 10 years, as in the case of several other countries. In addition, we submit that the tax holiday should be made absolute and not limited to any fixed percentage of the capital employed.

Section 113—Tax in the case of non-residents

Under Sub-section 3 of Section 113 a non-resident [in which category is also included, by virtue of Section 2(13), a person not ordinarily resident] is given an option to pay tax on his Indian income at the rate arrived at on his total world income. However, the Section makes it clear that a declaration to be so assessed would be final and applicable to all assessments on that person thereafter. This, it is submitted, is not a fair provision, because a person exercising the option gets bound down for all times to come and can never change it even though circumstances may change even after long periods, of say 25 years. It is submitted that a fair view of the matter would be that the option should not be made irrevocable for all time, but should be capable of being revoked at intervals of say 3 to 5 years. If a person who has exercised the option revokes it subsequently, he should be assessed at the flat rate (at present it is 48.37%) unless after a lapse of another 3 to 5 years as may be prescribed he re-exercises once again the option to be assessed on the basis of world income. Similarly, a person who does not exercise the option, to begin with, should not be debarred from exercising the option at a later date in the same manner as the person exercising the option initially should be able to revoke it after the expiry of a fixed period. There are many Indian nationals who go abroad for higher studies as well as Professors and persons who are deputed abroad, who may become non-residents and after the lapse of 2 years of non-residence when they return to India, would be classified in the category of residents but not ordinarily residents. In such cases, it would create hardships if a person was not able to exercise the option or having exercised it is not allowed to revoke it at a later date; or not having exercised it is debarred from doing so later. In such circumstances, it is submitted that the Section may be suitably amended to provide for the option being made capable of being revoked at fixed intervals of 3 to 5 years or if the option has not been exercised, allow the same to be exercised even though such right of exercising the option has not been availed of on the first occasion on which the person became non-resident. The period can be fixed on the basis of administrative convenience.

Section 139—Returns of Income

Under Sub-section 3 of Section 139, to enable a person to carry forward the loss suffered by him during a previous year, he is required to submit a return of income within the time prescribed under Sub-section (1) of Section 139. No discretion seems to be vested with the Assessing Officers in entertaining return of loss submitted late. It is submitted that when an assessee is prevented by sufficient cause from submitting his return within the prescribed time, it would add to his hardship if the loss suffered by him is to be completely ignored. Therefore, suitable amendment may be made to enable the Assessing Officers to entertain returns if reasonable and satisfactory explanation for late submission is given by assessee. It may also be made clear that the time limit prescribed in Section 139(1) shall not be reduced merely by service of a notice under Section 139(2).

Section 140A—Self-assessment

The provisions of this Section, if it is submitted, lead to an anomalous position. Under it the tax on self-assessment is required to be paid within one month of the date of submission of the return. There is no discretion vested with the Income-tax Officer to grant any extension of time for payment even in genuine cases. This section has an unintended adverse effect on the persons who are prompt in filing their returns. For example, if a person is to submit his return of income on the 10th of April of the assessment year, he becomes liable to penalty if he fails to pay the tax by the 10th of May. If this very person had submitted his return on the 30th September, he would be liable to pay penalty only if he fails to pay the tax by the 31st October. Thus by delaying submission of return and taking full advantage of the maximum limit of time allowed for submission of returns, an assessee places himself in a more advantageous position. We feel that it should add to the convenience of the Department to encourage prompt submission of return of income even earlier to the time limit fixed under Section 139. It is, therefore, submitted that the Section should be suitably amended so that the tax on self-assessment becomes payable within one month of the last date on which the assessee is required to file the return under Section 139(1) and not within one month of the submission or the filing of the return.

Section 185—Registered firms

The quantum of penalty leviable on a firm which gets registered under Section 185 should be related to the amount of tax due from the firm and not calculated on the basis of what it would be if the firm is treated as an unregistered firm since the assessing officers are entitled to levy penalty on the partners for a similar delay. The present system really involves levy of penalty two times and at differing rates. It would also lead to considerable delay in arriving at a finality with regard to the liability of the assessee.

Section 271—Failure to furnish returns, etc.

Under Section 271(1)(i), an assessee is made liable to pay penalty calculated at 2% of the tax for every month during which the default continues in a case where submission of the return is delayed. It is not however clear whether the penalty is to be calculated on the amounts of tax due on the basis of the return filed or on the amount of tax after deducting from it the amount already paid in advance. The purpose of the clause being the avoidance of deliberate default in filing the return so as to delay payment of tax, we submit that it should be clarified in law that the penalty payable would be calculated only on the balance of tax due after taking into account taxes paid in advance.

Gift Tax and Capital Gains Tax on the same Transaction

In an instance where an asset is transferred at a value less than its fair market value Section 52 of the Income-tax Act gives power to the Assessing Officers to take into consideration the capital gains involved by adopting the fair market value as true sale value. In such an instance, the assessee can also be subjected to Gift Tax on this difference. It is submitted that clause 3 of Section 47 should be suitably amended to provide that the surplus does not become taxable both to Gift Tax and to Capital Gains Tax.

FINANCE ACT, 1964

Income by way of royalties and technical fees

Under the Finance Act, 1964, royalty qualifies for concessional rate of tax at 50% only if the agreement in respect of it has been entered into on or after 1-4-1961. Fees for rendering technical service qualifies for such concessional treatment only where the agreement in respect of it is entered into after 29th

February 1964. It is submitted that there is no justification for discriminating against agreements entered into before these dates. Therefore, it may be provided that the income arising under the head Royalty or Fees for Technical Services would be assessed at the concessional rate of 50% if the agreement under which such sums become payable have been approved for the purposes by the Government of India.

Section 5 of the Finance Act, 1964

Sub-clause 1 of Clause A of Section 5 provides certain relief in respect of exports. This relief may be extended to cover cases covered by sub-clause (3) in view of the position that several producers are required by Government Regulations to sell their goods only to agencies such as State Trading Corporation, Metal and Mineral Trading Corporation etc. It may be noted that the benefits would have accrued to them under the Sub-section but for this compulsion in selling to the State agencies. Therefore, it would be only fair that the benefits from tax are extended to such concerns.

There are also instances where the foreigners draw upon the technical knowledge and skill from Indian Nationals. With a view to providing incentives for the export of such technical know-how, we submit that incentives in the form of relief from tax should be provided in instances where a person in India renders technical services to a foreigner and gains foreign exchange in the shape of royalty or service fees.

Export Incentives

Incentives in the shape of rebates of income-tax and super tax are not available now to companies which have not made the prescribed arrangement for declaration and distribution of dividends in India while the benefit is available to all other assessee. It is submitted that the benefit should be extended to cover all assessee whether resident or non-resident in India. There are some foreign companies having branches in India known to us which are engaged in exporting goods and merchandise to countries nearer to India from their other branches. If the export incentives were to be extended to them as well, they are very likely to take up the export of goods from India also, thus augmenting the Indian revenue, as well as earning valuable foreign exchange.

Investment allowance

It is being increasingly realised that the industrial development in the country needs to be distributed between the various geographic regions instead of being concentrated in individual States. As an incentive to achieve this result, it is submitted that the scheme of dividing the country into definite geographic regions as fully developed, semi-developed and under-developed areas and providing investment allowances depending upon the type of industry and the area in which it would be established, may be considered. It is learnt that such a scheme obtains in Italy.

We also submit that a system of selective investment allowances for individual tax-payers should be evolved whereby any sums invested in selected industries subject to a specified amount would be allowed as a straight deduction from the total income for tax purposes. The industries selected for this purpose would be those where capital is not readily forthcoming, for example, the building industry and fertilisers. The list of industries for this purpose could be changed from time to time according to the prevailing circumstances.

Averaging of income in the case of individuals

With a view to injecting a larger degree of equity in the levy and collection of income-tax, the Council submits that provision should be made for providing tax relief to the assessee by a scheme of averaging of income. Because of graduation in taxes, two different assessee receiving the same aggregate income over a period of years can ultimately pay substantially different amounts of income-taxes. The difficulty in India is all the more because of the steep rise in the rate of taxes as between years. In such a setting, the taxpayer whose income is fairly stable, pays the minimum amount while the assessee whose income varies substantially from year to year pays more. We submit that this result is unfair and needs to be remedied. The scheme which we are suggesting would be of immense help to assessee whose income, though solely attributable to one year, is highly sporadic. The income earned by movie actors and actresses, salesmen receiving commission, etc., are good examples of such fluctuating items of income. There are economic pursuits where the capacity to earn is itself limited to small number of years. For example, the artists' working life is not as long as in the case of the member of other professions. We strongly believe that it would be a fair treatment to them to be given this benefit of averaging of income. While such benefit would be immediately helpful to assesseees who are engaged in such spectacular pursuits, we believe that the system has inherent advantages which calls for its implementation in India. A scheme for averaging of income is known to be in existence in the U.S.A.

A broad outline of the plan in this respect would be as under :—

1. A five-year block system of averaging may be made, on an optional basis, to individual tax-payers. In other words, a tax-payer would have the privilege of using this system at intervals of five years or more. Once a particular year has been included in a block, it should not be allowed to be included in a subsequent averaging block. Such a restriction would limit the number of tax adjustment claims and also prevent the use of low income years in more than one average.

2. Under this averaging system, an assessee would consider the excess of the taxes payable on the income of the most recent five years over the amount that would have been payable had one-fifth of that income been reported in each year. This would be done by totalling the taxable income for the five years, dividing the total by five, applying to the average income a tax at average rates, multiplying the average tax figure by five, and finally, comparing that total with the total tax actually paid for the five years.

3. The excess of the tax paid over the total average tax as computed above may be made refundable to the tax-payer only to the extent that it exceeded say one per cent of the total taxable income for the five-year period. This introduces a tolerance factor which would limit the formula's use to tax-payers who would otherwise suffer severe hardships because of variations in annual income. Legislatively, this tolerance factor can be varied, making it higher or lower than the one suggested.

4. Administratively, the tax-payer could be required to file his averaging scheme with the tax return for the last year in the five-year block, so that the refund due to him as a result of the application of the formula could be applied against the tax due from him for the final year in the block computed in the regular manner. The excess, if any, may be either refunded or adjusted towards the advance tax due from him.

This proposal is flexible and could incorporate many changes without affecting its basic features. It is being suggested only as a practical basis for including in the statute a much needed and long overdue relief provision.

Divergence between Real Profits and Taxable Income.

It is submitted that the implications of the increasing divergence, in a number of cases, between the quantum of real profits of an assessee (as determined according to correct and generally established accounting principles), on the one hand, and taxable income, on the other, is a matter of some concern, not only to the assesseees directly affected thereby, but also to the general economy. The number of items of genuine outgo or expenditure which, for tax purposes, are neither permitted to be deducted as Revenue Expenses, nor allowed to be amortized over the estimated period during which the benefit of such expenditure is expected to be available to the assessee, has been steadily increasing. In earlier representations we have already commented on the desirability of changes in the present treatment for purposes of taxation of : (a) Interest on goods purchased on deferred credit terms; (b) Payments for Technical Know-how; and (c) Preliminary and Pre-Incorporation Expenses of Companies. In respect of Interest on purchases and deferred payment terms, a recent judgment of the Supreme Court has now established that these are deductible as Revenue Expenses. Urgent need exists, in our estimation, for administrative instructions for allowance of amortization, over appropriate periods, of the outgo of the nature indicated under (b) and (c) above. Similar administrative instructions to permit deduction as Revenue Expenditure of expenses on issue of Debentures or for otherwise raising funds for purchase of Capital Assets, on equal instalments over the term of the Debentures or the period within which such funds have to be repaid are, it is submitted, overdue. Alternatively, such expenses should be considered as forming part of the "actual cost" of such Capital Assets for purpose of allowance of Depreciation and Development Rebate wherever admissible. At the earliest available opportunity, the law should be amended to incorporate in it the changes effected by the abovementioned administrative instructions. It is emphasized that this changed treatment is suggested only in respect of items of genuine expenditure incurred by an assessee, involving an actual outlay of cash for perfectly legitimate and proper business purposes and would not extend to items such as those referred to in Sections 37 and 40(c) of the Income-tax Act 1961, as recently amended.

Gift-Tax Act

The attention of the Council has been drawn to a large number of cases in which the Income-tax Department has started proceedings against members of professional bodies, particularly Chartered Accountants and Lawyers, under the Gift-tax Act, where junior assistants working in professional firms and other promising young persons have been admitted as partners without charging goodwill.

The contention of the Department is that since at the time of admission of these new partners no goodwill was charged by the continuing partners, there is an element of gift in the transaction which can be subjected to gift tax.

The Council would respectfully point out that this contention of the Department is not well-founded for the following reasons :—

1. The question of gift could arise only if there is either no consideration or inadequacy of consideration. In all such cases the consideration for admitting such junior partners is that they share the burden of the professional work of the firm, and make themselves responsible for its unlimited liability.

2. As the senior partners become old their capacity for work decreases.

3. There could be no intention of avoidance of tax since each such junior partners have to be qualified members of a recognised professional body after having passed the requisite professional examinations.

4. In most cases such junior partners are in no way related to the existing partners.

5. Often the incoming junior partners bring in fresh work which increases the income of the firm.

6. In the case of a professional firm where the professional fees depend almost entirely on the ability of the partners, the goodwill has a purely personal element depending on the ability of the person. Under the circumstances, there seems to be no justification whatsoever in taking proceedings in such bona fide cases under the Gift-Tax Act. Initiation of gift-tax proceedings causes serious harassment to professional persons and would, on the contrary, discourage the healthy practice of admitting junior partners in professional firms without charging goodwill, which is an antiquated method of depending on the ability to pay rather than on the inherent ability of the person himself.

Gift-tax on Insurance Policies under the Married Women's Property Act.

It is understood that some Officers are now attempting to levy Gift-tax annually on the amount of the premium paid by a husband on the Insurance Policies taken out by him for the benefit of his wife under the Married Women's Property Act. The effect of levying Gift-tax in such cases is that the husband not only does not get the full benefit of the rebate in respect of Life Insurance Premium to which he would otherwise be entitled under the provision of Sections 87 and 99A of the Income-tax Act 1961, but in certain cases is even subject to a Gift-tax which exceeds the amount of relief from Income-tax, so that, in effect, he is made to bear an additional charge. Such a Gift-tax is attempted to be assessed even in respect of policies taken out under the Married Women's Property Act long ago, where the husband now has to choose between either bearing such additional tax or having the Policy treated as "paid-up". It is submitted that, whatever may be the strict position under the law in this regard, Gift-tax should not be charged in such cases in view of the objectives for which the Married Women's Property Act was enacted and the desirability of making Indians more insurance mind, especially as the monopoly for Life Insurance Business in India vests in the Life Insurance Corporation of India.

Approach of Tax Authorities.

While we welcome the steps taken by the Government in cases of gross evasion of tax, it is necessary to win over the sympathies of a large number of other assesses. In their cases the department should adopt a sympathetic approach, penalties should not be levied for technical defaults for delay in payment of taxes or submission of returns. Instead of harsh penalties, interest even at the rate of 8% or over may be charged.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR A RATIONALISED INCOME-TAX RATE STRUCTURE

It is recognised by the Income-tax Department, Chartered Accountants and the Assesseees that the present Income-tax Rate Structure, and the method of computation of the net tax payable by an assessee (other than corporations) are very much complicated, in spite of recent efforts towards simplification. An elaborate tax rate structure and a complicated system of computing tax on various components of total income make the task of ascertainment of tax liability a tedious job, involving a labour disproportionate to the results. When it is realised that the whole process of elaborate computation has to be done afresh on each rectification, or on appeal, the necessity for evolving a simplified and rationalised tax rate structure becomes still more pressing. Some practical suggestions in this respect are made in subsequent paragraphs.

The Average rate of Income-tax

2. The computation of tax, which, by itself, is sufficiently complicated, becomes still more complicated on account of the necessity for ascertaining the "average" rate of tax for various purposes. The idea of an "average rate" is now regarded so fundamental to the scheme of taxation that a definition of average rate is included in the statute itself. Average rate of tax is required to be calculated for (i) ascertaining tax on incomes which form part of total income, but on which no tax is payable, (ii) ascertaining tax on special types of income included in the total income, e.g., capital gains, and (iii) ascertaining deductions from tax payable, in shape of rebates on various amounts expended from total income. It is evident that if the total income, the gross tax computed thereon, and the sum to which the average rate of tax is to be applied for purpose of relief or rebate, all run in five figures, the average rate must either be calculated correct to at least 7 significant figures, or the calculation must be made ad hoc for each case by the rule of proportionate parts. The average rate of income-tax is a function of the total income so that in a tax structure based on "slab" system the average rate varies with the slightest addition to the total income, though the variation is, of course, very small in magnitude. As the quantities to which the average rate is to be applied are in many cases (e.g., insurance premia, donations) limited to sums independent of total income, there is no reason why the average rate should have any significance in respect of these quantities. For other sums, which form part of the total income but on which tax is not payable, or which are of a special character it is possible to correlate the tax payable (or the relief admissible) in respect of these, directly to these sums themselves, by devising a suitable table of rates. It is one of the suggestions herein made that the necessity for obtaining the average rate can be abolished for all cases without any material detriment either to the revenue or to the tax-payer.

The Differential Treatment for Income from Salaries

3. It is one of the standing features of the annual Finance Act that it contains a provision by virtue of which the tax on Salaries is computed with reference to the rates of the previous year's Finance Act. This provision, primarily intended to obviate re-computation of tax on salaries, if the rates prescribed by the subsequent year's Finance Act are different, introduces, in our view, an unnecessary duplication of the work involved in tax computation. Payment of tax as the income is being earned is now not limited to salaried assesseees but is common to all assesseees who have to pay tax either by way of deduction at source from salaries and dividends, or as advance tax voluntarily or as demanded by the department. The special treatment accorded to income from salaries appears to us to have outlived its usefulness and it only adds to the complications of tax computations. It is suggested that this provision should, therefore, be abolished.

Slab System or Step System

4. The tax rates structure, before the Finance Act, 1964, was uniformly based on the slab system not only for income-tax but for all direct taxes. The Finance Act, 1964 introduced a partial variation, in so far as computation of surcharge on unearned income and of annuity deposits were concerned. These computations were based on step system. The introduction of the step system for annuity deposits may be defended on the ground that it was not directly a measure of taxation, but a measure for compulsory savings. The same cannot be said about surcharge on unearned income. It is suggested that there should be one uniform system of computation, either slab or step, for income-tax purposes.

The slab system was preferred because it is regarded as equitable inasmuch as it subjected only the higher strata of total income to higher rates of taxation, and secondly, because it completely eliminated the necessity of computation in marginal cases, excepting the case where the slab started at a level below the initially exempt income e.g., Rs. 1000 for unmarried individuals, who have not to pay any tax if their total income does not exceed Rs. 3000. The defect of the system is that the average rate of tax changes with the addition of each rupee to the total income, and that a summation has to be made, or a table based on such summation is to be referred, for ascertaining the tax payable for any given total income. If, however, the necessity to refer to the average rate of income-tax is to be abolished altogether, the first objection loses much of its force, and the second is not of much importance, as tables showing tax payable at any particular level of income have to be prepared even for rates based on "step" system, due to the existence of marginal cases. In the specimen tables suggested herein, however, the step system has been assumed for the tax structure, but the tables can easily be converted to slab system if necessary. If recourse to average rate of tax is regarded as of fundamental importance, then the step system appears to be the preferable system.

Family Allowances

5. The allowance admissible to married persons and the additional allowance limited to the dependent children, is at present incorporated in the rate structure itself. It is suggested that the allowance should be separately given, and that there should be only one tax rate structure for individuals whether married or unmarried, and whether with dependents or whether without dependents.

Surcharges on tax on earned and unearned incomes

6. The present surcharge on income-tax and super-tax on earned income affects earned incomes exceeding Rs. 1 lakh only, and is payable on the tax at the appropriate slab rate on the excess over Rs. 1 lakh. As the total tax rate for income over Rs. 1 lakh is uniformly 75% the surcharge on earned income can be conveniently expressed as a percentage of the excess itself instead of the percentage of the tax on the excess.

The position is different as regards surcharge on tax on unearned income. This surcharge is expressed as a percentage of the tax payable on the unearned income, on the basis that such unearned income forms the highest strata of the total income. The surcharge therefore depends not only on the quantum of the unearned income, but also on the quantum of total income. Formerly, there was a uniform rate for this surcharge, but now a varying rate on the step system is introduced, with marginal reliefs where the step becomes higher. It is submitted that the provisions of the marginal relief are very loosely worded and are, in practice, unworkable. This is illustrated in the Appendix (B) enclosed. In common with other suggestions made in this note, it is suggested that the surcharge on unearned income should be made directly correlated to the unearned income itself, instead of being related to the tax on such unearned income.

Suggested Rationalised Tax Rates

7. In the paragraphs following, tables of rationalised tax rates, rates for rebates and reliefs, rates for special types of income, and for family allowances are given. It may be noted that the object of this study is the rationalisation of tax rates pure and simple, and the tables are merely illustrative. The tables are all for individuals. For Hindu Undivided Families they can be prepared on similar basis, or a special allowance, on the analogy of Family allowances suggested, can be made, keeping one table only for all individuals, associations, and HUF's.

The total income in all cases is the total income, after adjustments under Chapter XXIIA, that is to say, after deducting the annuity deposit admissible, and after including the annuity deposit instalment, if any, received in the previous year.

A composite table is made for income-tax and super-tax. The tables can be easily split so as to show income-tax and super-tax separately.

Basic Tax Tables

8. The basic tax assessable under the Finance Act 1964, and the average rate of tax is given in the table below :

Total Income In thousands	Basic Tax	Unmarried Individual Percentage to total income
10	865	8.65
20	2740	13.70
30	6490	21.63
40	11990	29.98
50	17490	34.98
60	24490	40.82
70	31490	44.99
80	38990	48.74
90	46490	51.65
100	53990	53.99
110	61490	55.90
120	68990	57.50
130	76490	58.84
140	83990	60.00
150	91490	61.00
160	89990	61.87
170	106490	62.64
180	113990	63.33
190	121490	63.90
200	128990	64.50

For the above, the following table, based on the step system is suggested.

Total income	Rate of Marginal Income tax per cent
Does not exceed 3000
Exceeds 3000 but does not exceed	5000	5	3001 to 3333
Exceeds 5000 ,,	10000	10	5001 to 5625
Exceeds 10000 ,,	20000	15	10001 to 11428
Exceeds 20000 ,,	30000	25	20001 to 22666
Exceeds 30000 ,,	50000	35	30001 to 34615
Exceeds 50000 ,,	75000	45	50001 to 59090
Exceeds 75000 ,,	100000	55	75001 to 91666
Exceeds 100000 ,,	150000	60	100001 to 112500
Exceeds 150000 ,,		65	150001 to 171428

The rate for marginal income is to be 50% when the total income does not exceed Rs. 20,000 and 100% when the total income exceeds Rs. 20,000. Even at 100% marginal rates the spread of marginal income is appreciable at higher levels of income. This is a basic disadvantage of the step system.

The model table above is rather severe on the assessee because it has been so framed as not to give a lower assessable tax, as compared to the tax assessable under the Finance Act 1964, and because the progression of the income is in multiples of 5, and not of intermediates.

Family Allowance—Suggested Table.

10. The table given above should apply to all individuals, whether married or not and whether with dependents or not. There should be a deduction for family allowance from the tax assessable under the above table, as per the following table :

	Rs.
Family Allowance for married persons, widows and widowers (to be deducted from tax)	160
Additional Family allowance for one dependent	20
Further Additional Family Allowance for more than one dependent	20
Total maximum Family Allowance	200

The total family allowance shall in no case exceed the gross tax computed according to table in paragraph (9).

When the total income exceeds Rs. 20,000 the family allowance otherwise allowable will be reduced by the excess of total income over Rs. 20,000 until the family allowance is reduced to nil.

Read in conjunction with the table in paragraph (9) the provision for family allowance will ensure that no tax will be payable by a married individual having income of Rs. 3200, a married individual with one dependent having income of Rs. 3600 and a married individual with more than one dependent having income of Rs. 4000.

Note :—Read with the provisions for marginal income taxation, the family allowance table suggested will mean that for incomes up to Rs. 3320 (the tax under marginal rates for this income being Rs. 160) a married individual without dependents will not pay any tax. Under the present scheme, a married individual pays tax at 6% on incomes above Rs. 3201. If it is desired that this should continue, it may be provided that for a married individual without dependents, the family allowance shall also not exceed Rs. 100 plus 45% of the excess of his income over Rs. 3000. This will ensure that a married individual without dependents will pay tax at 5% on incomes in excess over Rs. 3200. But the matter is a minor one, and the additional benefit to a married person may be ignored. As the rate of tax is taken in multiples of 5, there is slight benefit in total tax for married individuals with or without dependents at the level of Rs. 5000 income, but this matter is also very minor.

Surcharge on Earned Income—Suggested rates.

11. It is suggested that the surcharge on earned income should be expressed at 7.5% of the excess of earned income over Rs. 1 lakh, when the earned income exceeds 1 lakh. At present, surcharges are express as percentages of tax, and the finance act provides that the tax will be increased by the surcharges. It will be necessary to clarify in the Income-tax Act, that tax will include surcharges whether expressed as percentage of tax, or as percentage of income itself.

Surcharges on Unearned Income—Suggested rates.

12. Appendix (A) attached hereto gives a table showing surcharges on unearned income payable according to the Finance Act, 1964 from Rs. 10,000 to Rs. 200,000 rising in multiples of 10,000, forming part of total incomes from 10,000 to 200,000. This table is prepared without taking into account the provisions as regards marginal reliefs. It has been shown in Appendix (B) that if strictly followed, these provisions will lead to absurd results.

We suggest the following table for surcharges on unearned income, related directly on the unearned income as a percentage of such unearned income.

Total income	Surcharge as percentage of unearned income included in the total income
Does not exceed 10,000	nil
Exceeds 10000 but does not exceed	25000	2.5
Exceeds 25000	50000	5.0
Exceeds 50000	100000	10.0
Exceeds 100000	200000	12.5
Exceeds 200000		15.0

Marginal cases : The surcharge shall not exceed 50 per cent of the excess of the unearned income over Rs. 10,000/- if the total income does not exceed 25,000 and 100 per cent of the excess of unearned income over 10,000 if the total income exceeds 25,000.

The surcharge payable on any unearned income shall also not exceed the sum of the following, namely : the surcharge payable on the same unearned income, had the immediately preceding step rate been applicable to such income, and 50 per cent or 100 per cent of the excess of the total income over the limit for total income mentioned in the immediately preceding step, according as such limit is 25000 or more.

Note :—The marginal unearned incomes can be stated against each step, but the marginal total incomes cannot be so stated, as the margins will depend on the quantum of the unearned income included in the total income. Such margins can be found out for each given unearned income.

Suggested Table for Rebates of Tax

13. Rebate of tax payable is due on the amounts mentioned in Sections 87, 87A, 88, 99A, 99B and 100 of the Income-tax Act in respect of certain expenditure by the assessee. It may now be said that the rebate is due both for income-tax and for super-tax. The rebate is at present allowable at the average rate of tax, but as has been suggested earlier, the elaborate calculation of average rate is really not necessary as the quantum of the amount on which rebate can be claimed is severally limited by the Act itself. For example, for insurance premia, apart from restrictions as regards allowance on short term insurance, there is also a quantitative restriction of 25% of total income or Rs. 10,000/- whichever is smaller. It is suggested that the rebate can be conveniently expressed as a percentage of the amount qualifying for rebate. The following table is suggested if the slab system of tax rates is retained. (If the slab system is discarded and the step system is accepted, there will be no need for any special table for rebate rates; the average rate will be given by the step rate table itself. The only provision to be made would be that where marginal incomes were involved the average rate would be deemed to be the rate for the immediately preceding step).

Table for Rebate allowable

Total Income	Rebate as percentage of the sum qualifying for rebate
Does not exceed 5000	5 (Limited to 25% of basic tax reduced by family allowance).
Exceeds 5000 but does not exceed 10000	10000	10
Exceeds 10000 „	30000	20
Exceeds 30000 „	50000	30
Exceeds 50000 „	100000	40
Exceeds 100000 „		50

This table is slightly loaded in favour of the revenue, but the extra burden on the assessee is not likely to be great as the amount qualifying for rebate is necessarily limited to a small fraction of the total income. The table can be liberalised if necessary, but then, it is likely to be as lengthy as the table for basic tax rates.

There shall be no rebate on any surcharges on income.

Incomes forming part of Total Income, on which tax is not payable.

14. As far as individual assessee are concerned the following types of income, which form part of the total income, but on which tax is not payable, are not likely to be of an appreciable magnitude when compared to the total income; the types of income are; dividends from Co-operative Societies, dividends from new industrial undertakings and share of the assessee in the tax paid by a registered firm of which he is a partner. It is suggested that relief may be given on these amounts at the same rates as are mentioned in the Table for rebates given in paragraph 13 above. (This assumes that the slab system is retained. If the step system is chosen the problem of average rate will be automatically solved, but even in this case, it may be desirable to have a table shorter than the lengthy table for the basic tax rates).

This leaves only the income of the assessee as his share in an unregistered firm or in an association of persons.

If the step system is adopted there will not be any difficulty, but if the slab system is retained, some way out must be found to avoid recourse to the computation of the average rate. The short table given in paragraph 13 may not be suitable for such types of income, as those may extend even to the whole of the total income of the assessee.

It is suggested that the best way out is to abolish altogether the taxation of the incomes of unregistered firms and of associations of persons in the hands of these entities, except to a limited extent as for registered firms or limited companies. After all, the revenue has the option to treat as registered a firm which has not applied for registration, if this course would be beneficial to the revenue. And the assessee, in their own interests, would apply for registration in other cases. The tax payable by the unregistered firms and by associations of persons themselves on their total income, should be kept at a higher rate than the rate for registered firms, in order to compel these to get themselves registered or incorporated. Coupled with added taxes for non-registration, the right of the department to treat as registered even an unregistered firm where such course is beneficial to the revenue, would make registration compulsory in almost all cases. Only ignorance of law, or carelessness would result in non-registration. It is suggested that by abolishing the taxation of the whole income fully in the hands of these entities the revenue would not lose anything. This suggestion however is strictly not a suggestion for rationalisation of the structure of tax rates, but is put forth here as a corollary thereof as it would help render similar treatment for tax purposes to all cases where activity is carried on by a group of individuals associated for some common purpose and through the assumption of a corporate personality.

Special Types of Incomes

15. Of the special types of incomes, for which a special mode of computation is provided for in Chapter XII, the accumulated balance of recognised provident funds, not excludible from the total income, may be excluded from consideration here, as of rare occurrence and necessarily of minor importance.

The other types of special income are compensation for termination of variation of managerial or sole selling rights, and Capital gains. As regards compensation for termination of managerial etc. rights, this problem has lost much of its importance due to changes made in the Company Law. The special treatment given to such compensation may now be withdrawn and the income treated at par with other income.

The case of Capital Gains is rather different. Capital Gains would be a resultant and significant part of the total income for many assessee. The present provision is to tax short term capital gains on the same footing as other income, and to tax long term capital gain at 75% or 50% of the average rate of tax on other non-special income increased by such long term capital gains, according as such gains relate to lands and buildings or to other assets. There is also a provision for minimum capital gains tax rate. If the step system is adopted the computation of the rate applicable to the particular type of long-term capital gain would be a matter of simplicity, though 75% or 50% of the average rate will not necessarily be a multiple of 5. In case the slab system is retained, the compilation of a separate table applicable to capital gains becomes a pressing matter. As it is desirable that tax on any type of income (or rebate on any type of expenditure etc.) should in all cases be directly a function of the quantity involved, the following table is suggested.

Total Income	Tax on Long-term capital gains in excess of Rs. 5000 as percentage of such excess
Does not exceed 25000	Lands and Bldgs.	Others
Exceeds 25000 but does not exceed 35000	20	15
Exceeds 35000 „ 50000	30	20
Exceeds 50000 „ 100000	40	30
Exceeds 100000 „	50	35

There should be usual marginal reliefs where the total income exceeds 10,000 (no capital gains tax being payable for total income not exceeding 10,000) and also at the step limits, in the manner previously indicated.

APPENDIX "B"

Marginal Reliefs in surcharge on Tax on unearned Income in the Finance Act, 1964

It is submitted that the provisions as respects marginal relief contained in the Finance Act, for surcharge on incometax and supertax on unearned income are incorrectly worded, and are, in practice, unworkable.

2. To illustrate, consider a total income of 1,00,000, consisting of earned income 75,000 and unearned income 25,000.

Tax on total income 1,00,000 I.T.	22740	31250=53990
Tax on an income of 75,000	16490	18750=35240
Difference, being tax on unearned income of 25,000 at highest strata	6250	£2500=18750

Surcharge at 12.5%	781.25	1562.50	2343.75
--------------------	--------	---------	---------

Consider now total income 1,00,000, earned income 74,999, unearned income 25,0001.

The tax on unearned income at highest strata will be	6250.25	12500.50	18750.75
--	---------	----------	----------

Surcharge, if there had been no marginal relief, would have been 15% of above tax.	937.53	1875.07	2812.60
--	--------	---------	---------

The marginal relief, as usually understood, would provide that because of an increase of rupee one in unearned income, the total surcharge should not increase from 2343—75 to 2812—60, but should be limited to the former tax increased (by 10+12.5) per cent of the increase in the unearned income; that is to say, the surcharge should be only 2343—98.

But the wording used in the Finance Act is different. It is stated that the surcharge shall not exceed the aggregate of the following sums, namely,

(i) an amount calculated at 12.5 per cent of incometax (and supertax) of an income of Rs. 25,000 if such income had been the total income (the income of 25,000 for this purpose being computed as if the income had included income from various sources in the same proportion as the total income of the person concerned).

(ii) One tenth of the excess of unearned income over Rs. 25,000 for surcharge on incometax and one eighth of such excess for surcharge on supertax. Now the tax payable on a total income of Rs. 25,000 (which consists of earned income 18749—75 and unearned income 6250.25, being the same proportion as in the original income of Rs. 1,00,000 consisting of earned income 74,999 and unearned income 25,001) is as below :

I.T. 3990 S.T. 500 Total: 4490 (For a total tax on a total income of 25000, the composition of such total income is irrelevant in the present case). Surcharge at 12.5 on this tax is 498—75 62—50 561—25.

This amount is to be increased by 10 and 12.5 per cent respectively of the excess of unearned income, 25,001, over 25,000. This amount is 10 P. and 12 P.

The total surcharge would therefore be limited to Rs. 561.48. This is less than the tax payable had the unearned income been only 25,000, instead of 25,001. This is an absurd result, but it follows from the wording given in the Finance Act. In fact, even for an unearned income of 30,000 in a total income of 100,000 the surcharge, on the same reasoning would be :

12.5 of tax on a total income of 25,000	561—25
10+12.5 of excess of 30,000 over 25,000	1125—00
Total Surcharge	1686—25

This is still less than the surcharge on an unearned income of 25,000 in a total income 100,000.

It is submitted that the wording of the provision for marginal relief ought to have been, in this case,

"The amount of surcharge payable under this clause shall in no case exceed the aggregate of the following sums, namely :—

(i) The surcharge that would have been payable under the preceding subclause (a)(i) had the unearned income included in the total income been Rs. 25,000 only.

(ii) One tenth/one eighth of the excess of unearned income over Rs. 25,000/- (for incometax surcharge and supertax surcharge respectively)."

Similar wording should have occurred at the relevant marginal relief provision where the total unearned income exceeded 75,000.

As the wording is patently defective, the surcharge has been calculated in appendix 'A' without taking into consideration the marginal relief provisions.

THE INSTITUTE OF CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS OF INDIA

Post Box No. 268,
Indraprastha Marg,
New Delhi-1.
25th January 1965.

Hon'ble Shri T. T. Krishnamachari,
Minister for Finance,
Government of India,
New Delhi.

Sir,

I have the honour to forward herewith a Memorandum containing some of the submissions made by the Council of the Institute on 18th January 1964 and 6th March 1964. A reference to these have been made in my letter dated the 22nd January 1965. The papers are being sent for the purpose of ready reference. It is hoped that the issues raised in them will also be considered while formulating decisions.

Yours faithfully,

C. BALAKRISHNAN
Secretary

Taxation of Registered Firms

The Council had represented in 1956 that the tax on Registered Partnership should not be made applicable to professional firms as it would retard the formation of such firms as also the trend towards an increase in their size. The Council submits that in the case of professional firms, like those of Chartered Accountants, Lawyers etc., there is no justification for the levy of such a tax.

During the last decade, the work of various professional persons, including Chartered Accountants, has become more specialised. Apart from their traditional functions, they are required to deal with a large number of specialised problems. The requirement for specialists keeps on increasing rapidly on account of the emergence of various economic, scientific and social forces. In the context of such revolutionary changes, it becomes impossible for a single professional person or a small-sized professional firm to keep abreast with the currents of thought in all the fields at the same time. These factors, coupled with the preference shown by a businessman in obtaining specialised services for the purpose of running or administering his business, have contributed to the growth in the size of the firms and a need for specialisation on the part of the various partners of a large professional firm. With the increase in the size of the business units, this need for specialists also increases. The Jenkins Committee in the United Kingdom recognised the importance of the necessity for increasing the size of professional firms. It recommended that the limit set on the maximum number of partners in a partnership should not be applicable to professional firms. The relevant extract from the Report is reproduced below :—

"The restriction imposed by Section 434 (Companies Act) has brought difficulties for those professional firms who cannot by law, or professional practice or custom, be incorporated and who wish, as many do under existing economic conditions, to have more than twenty partners. The partners in such firms belong to professional organisations which exercise effective control over their members and we do not think it is necessary for the protection of the public to maintain the restriction in their case."

Possibly, the tax on Registered Firms was introduced with a view to discouraging businessmen from resorting to the device of admitting their relatives and other nominees as partners for the purpose of avoiding or reducing the incidence of taxation. The Council submits that this consideration is totally absent in the case of professional firms, like those of Chartered Accountants, Solicitors, Architects, etc., where the gaining admission into the partnership, the individual has to obtain the qualifications of the appropriate professional body.

The prohibition imposed on the carrying of the profession of Accountancy in the form of a limited company is yet another reason why special consideration should be shown to accountancy firms in the matter of taxation. It is believed that similar restrictions obtained in respect of various other professions as well.

At present, a higher rate of tax is imposed in the case of firms having five or more partners. The Council is of the opinion that this provision is most unjust to professional firms as it strikes at the root of the very desirable system of having larger partnerships of professional persons for rendering specialised service under one roof to their clients. In view of scarcity of professional talent and the need for encouraging larger professional firms for rendering more efficient and specialised services to the public, it is desirable to encourage formation of professional partnerships. In view of the above conditions, it is submitted that at least in the case of professional firms, the Registered Firms Tax should be abolished.

As a result of the representation of the Council and other professional bodies, the additional surcharge in the case of professional firms was reduced from 20% to 10%. The Council submits that there is no justification for continuing even this 10% levy of additional surcharge on professional firms.

Retirement Benefits for Self-Employed People

One of the significant features in the life of a self-employed person is that while he earns a comparatively high income in the prime of his life, after payment of tax he is left with only a very little margin of saving. Consequently, he finds it difficult to lead or maintain for long a life reasonable standard during his retired life. The difficulty in this regard is all the more in India where the value of the savings in real terms has been continuously on the decline on account of the steady rise in prices. To mitigate the difficulties arising in such a situation, the United Kingdom Tax Laws have a provision under Sections 22 and 23 of the United Kingdom Finance Act, 1956, exempting from the income of self-employed persons a sum of £750 or an amount not exceeding 10% of his income, whichever is less, utilised in the purchase of a retirement annuity. The exemption is available on condition that at the time the annuity matures for payment, the annual payments received would suffer tax.

The scheme covers several classes of persons, such as professional men, partners in firms, etc. The scheme is applicable even to two Jobmen, i.e., individuals who are earning income from two sources, one earning pension rights and the other not so entitled e.g., persons holding part-time pensionable posts.

Introduction of such a scheme in India would help the tax-payer to save a larger sum of money for his retirement than what he is able to do now after payment of tax.

It may be pointed out that the relief sought under the scheme is different from the one to which a self-employed assessee is entitled just as other individual assesses, under Section 87(3)(2) of the Income-tax Act, in so far as the amount exempted under this scheme would not wholly escape tax, but would be taxed at a lower rate—the rate applicable to him on the basis of his total income at the time the instalments of annuity are received. It must further be clarified that the amount contributed by the members under the scheme would be invested in Government Securities. This would be apparent from the Insurance-cum-Annuity Scheme, appended to the memorandum, to illustrate the manner in which the concession would operate in effect. The scheme has been drawn up on the lines of a similar scheme started by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales some years ago. The Council submits that the Government may consider granting relief on these lines to self-employed persons in addition to what is envisaged under Section 87 of the Income-tax Act.

Capital Expenditure incurred prior to commencement of production

According to the present departmental practice, expenditure by way of salaries, rent and other administrative expenditure incurred prior to the commencement of business is disallowed. It is not considered to be an expenditure incurred for earning the income, nor is it considered capital expenditure entitled to depreciation and development rebate.

The distinction between capital expenditure and revenue expenditure assumes its significance only for purposes of short-term financial analysis. It cannot be denied that both types of expenditure have got to be absorbed by the business. Therefore, when an item of expenditure incurred for purposes of business is judged to be an item of capital expenditure, it is submitted that such expenditure may either be allowed as revenue expenditure in the year in which it is incurred or alternatively amortised. Such amortisation should be either by way of depreciation or otherwise spread over and allowed as a deduction over a period of years not exceeding 5 years and charged equally to the profits of 5 succeeding years.

Payment for Technical Know-How

The Council wishes to draw your attention in particular to the manner in which payments for technical know-how are dealt with by the Taxing Department. At present payments which are specifically made in connection with drawings, layouts of factory, buildings, plant, etc., are allowed to be capitalised and depreciation and development rebate are granted in respect of such sums. But payments made for the formula for the production of goods, guidance regarding method and manner of manufacturing the articles, etc., are treated as capital payments. But no depreciation or development rebate is allowed on it as such expenditure does not bring into existence any tangible assets. The Council submits that this is not at all justified. Such expenditure should be treated as having been made for purposes of business and allowed as revenue expenditure, it being on par with payments as royalty. Annual payments of royalty are definitely allowed as deduction and there is no reason why the initial payment in lieu of royalty which would otherwise have been incurred over a number of years should not be allowed. The lump sum payment would, in fact, be smaller than the total amount of expenditure, if the payments were to be made annually. Therefore, the Council submits that payment for technical know-how should be treated on par with scientific research for purposes of Section 10.

Accounting Studies in respect of Public Expenditure

The Council submits that apart from the suggestions made in respect of taxes a good deal could be achieved in respect of public expenditure itself. After all, both the quantum as well as the pattern of taxation takes its hue from the extent and structure of public expenditure. If public expenditure itself is subjected to scientific analysis from the accounting point of view, it would help in the discovery of many areas where economy could be effected, adding to the efficiency. The members of the Institute would be only too willing to be associated with this function and the Government could draw upon the experience and knowledge of the members in conducting such management and financial analysis on a scientific basis.

Dividend Tax

The need for greater ploughing back of profit for industrial expansion cannot be over emphasised. However, the Council feels that in its present form the 7½% tax on the dividends other than for companies which have to make a compulsory distribution, requires some modification. Whereas the Council appreciates that the proposal to levy this dividend tax is for conserving the resources of companies, it would suggest that this dividend tax should not be applicable in all cases up to a limit of 10% on paid-up equity capital. The levy of dividend tax at 7½% should start in respect of equity dividends in excess of the limit of 10%.

Annuity Deposit Scheme

The Council respectfully endorses the object of reducing the rates of direct taxes on individuals in order to encourage hard work, initiative and enterprise; but is unable to agree with the principle that a person who saves his money should not be able to decide for himself how he should invest it.

The Council fails to see the benefit accruing from the education in the rates of taxes to an individual assessee, because at the end of ten years, the assessee will be collecting ten instalments of annuity, which in turn will be assessed together with the interest when repaid.

If, however, this Scheme is at all to be retained, the Council would like to make one suggestion for its amendment. It is suggested that the assessee should be given an option to postpone the commencement of the repayment of deposit by Government, if he so chooses.

The advantage of this modification would be that the scheme itself would be converted into a partial retirement benefit measure in so far as the assessee could exercise the option of starting the repayment at such time when he is able to retire and will provide him with retirement benefit. The suggestion of the Council is not likely to lead to any appreciable loss of revenue for the Government and from Government's point of view the additional advantage would be that the deposit money will be available for a longer period. It is hoped that this suggestion will receive attention from Government as it is likely to provide much needed relief to self-employed people who do not have the benefits of provident fund, gratuity, etc.

It is also suggested that the benefit offered to special category of persons like actors, authors, etc., be also extended to all self-employed peoples like professional persons.

Self Assessment and Payment

Whereas the Council cannot object to the scheme for self assessment and payment of tax by the assessee, it would like to point out some of the administrative difficulties involved in this matter. It is the general experience of tax payers that in spite of writing letters to the Department, even the challans, to enable the assessee to make payment of tax, are not readily available. Further many small assessee will not be familiar with detailed computations of tax.

We would therefore recommend a modification of the scheme whereby upon receipt of the income-tax return, the Income-tax Officer should make the calculations of tax and send out a challan to the assessee requiring him to pay the tax within 30 days. In the opinion of the Council this will lead to smoother administrative working and remove undue inconvenience to the assessee.

In this connection the Council would also like to point out that the proposal contained in the Finance Bill viz., that where the income returned by an assessee is less than 90% of the assessed income, the assessee should be deemed to have concealed his income or furnished inaccurate particulars thereof, is harsh and likely to create hardship in genuine cases where there has been an honest mistake in preparing the return or calculating the tax. The Council would strongly suggest the deletion of this measure.

APPENDIX

Scheme of Pension and Life Insurance for the Chartered Accountants

All Chartered Accountants may be divided into two Groups. One Group will include all Chartered Accountants who are practising Auditors, Income-tax Experts, etc. In other words, they are the professionals who are not employed by any Employer. The second group will consist of Chartered Accountants who are employed on fixed remuneration in various firms and business houses. The second group presents no problems because as employees the Income-tax Act confers upon them several concessions if they join schemes like Provident Fund, Superannuation Schemes, etc., which their employers may have established.

The problems of the former group (the group consisting of practising Chartered Accountants) can be solved only if the Government is prepared to have a legislation more or less on the lines of the U.K. Finance Act, 1956. This Finance Act has made far-reaching concessions to self-employed persons. The relevant sections of the Finance Act, 1956 which deal with tax concessions to self-employed persons are Sections 22 and 23. For a body of practising professionals, the type of scheme which one can envisage for groups of employed persons, is not possible of implementation. The income of every individual member of the profession may vary as also his requirements. Utmost flexibility permitting variations in contributions from year to year and as between one individual to another individual, though in the same income group, is necessary. Any scheme, however, which provides Death-cum-Retirement benefits can really be attractive only if the tax concessions available to Employer-Employee Group Schemes are also offered to self-employed persons. As it is, each Chartered Accountant has the option of effecting individual policies with the Life Insurance Corporation according to his needs. At the most Life Insurance Corporation can consider whether it can assist this body of professionals by offering some concessions in rates. But the build-up of satisfactory Death and Retirement Benefits out of individual taxed incomes is really a difficult task.

In the first instance, the suggested scheme is based on the assumption (a) that it will include only the self-employed Chartered Accountants and (b) that the necessary tax concessions will be given by Government to this class of Chartered Accountants.

Pensions at Retirement

It would appear that a Chartered Accountant will normally not retire from his profession, unless he is obliged to do so on grounds of ill-health. For the purpose of the scheme, however, it will be necessary to assume some average age at retirement which will be described as the normal retirement age. For the sake of fixing the ideas, age 65 has been taken as the normal retirement age.

Fixing this normal retirement age does not, however, imply that a member of the scheme must necessarily retire at this age or that he should commence receiving his retirement benefit from that age regardless of whether he retires or not. There would be provision in the scheme for retirement before the normal retirement age as also for deferment of retirement after the normal retirement age. For example, retirement between ages 55 and 65 may be permitted. Such retirements will naturally be described as early retirement and retirement after age 65 but before say age 70 may be termed as Deferred Retirement. This age range should normally cover the probable retirement ages of a majority of the Members.

Contributions by the Members. The Member may pay every year a varying contribution subject to such limits as may be prescribed by the Government under its legislation giving necessary tax concessions to self-employed persons. This contribution would be applied by the Corporation as Single Premium for purchase of pension at normal retirement age. If the Member retires at the normal retirement age, the total Pension he will receive will be the sum total of the various units of Pension which will have been secured for him each year by the annual contribution which he will have paid before his retirement.

The Member would be issued by the Corporation an individual Certificate which will state the total contribution paid by the Member and the total Pension that will have been purchased for him by the contributions paid to date. Obviously such Certificate will have to be issued every year, because the total quantum of Pension and the Contributions will vary from year to year depending upon the amount of contribution which the Member will pay each year and his attained age.

For the purpose of simplifying the administration of the scheme, it will envisage provision of a normal Pension. This Pension will be guaranteed for a minimum period of 5 years and will continue so long thereafter as the Member is a alive. The Member will, however, have the option to exchange this normal Pension with any other type of Pension. The optional Pension that will be offered in lieu of the normal Pension will be of the following types :

Pension Guaranteed for Longer Periods

Option 1 : A pension which, instead of being guaranteed for 5 years, can be guaranteed for a longer period of, say : either 10 or 15 years. If the death of the Member occurs during this period, the Pension will continue to be paid to his dependents without any reduction for the balance of the guaranteed period. If, however, the Member survives the guaranteed period, the same Pension will continue to be paid to him during the remainder of his life. In this class of Pension, therefore, the Member has an assurance that regardless of his survival to the end of the guaranteed period he or his dependents will benefit by the Pension over the minimum guaranteed period. On the contrary, if he lives beyond the guaranteed period, he has an assurance of life-long income. There is thus a guarantee of a minimum benefit but no limit to the benefit which he can receive if he lives long enough.

Option 2: A member can purchase separate Pensions for himself and for his wife each of which may be guaranteed for an agreed period (e.g., 5, 10 or 15 years) and continue thereafter during the life time of beneficiary until death.

Option 3: If the Member does not wish to purchase separate Pensions for himself and his wife, he may purchase what are commonly known as "last survivor pensions". This Pension envisages that a certain amount of pension would be payable to the member and his wife so long as both are alive. If one of them dies, the pension will continue to the survivor of until his/her death. It is customary to provide in "last survivor Pensions" that so long as the Member and his wife are alive the quantum of pension should be more than the pension payable to the survivor.

It should, however, be understood that the amount of annual pension available under the options will not be of the same amount as normal Pension stated in his individual Certificate. The Member can notify to the Corporation his desire to elect optional pensions and the Corporation will quote the amounts of equivalent Pension which the Member or his wife or both can receive in lieu of the normal Pension.

Early Retirement

If a Member retires before the normal retirement age, obviously the amount of his Pension will have to be adjusted. The Member will have paid fewer contributions and he is expected to live longer because he retires at a younger age. Consequently, the Pension payable on earlier retirement age will be of a smaller amount than the normal Pension.

Deferred Retirement

For the same reasons, if the Member retires after the normal retirement age, the quantum of his Pension will be more than the Pension at normal retirement age.

On the Member intimating to the Corporation his desire to retire earlier or later than the normal retirement age, individual quotations will be given of how much Pension he will receive at such retirement.

Death Before Retirement

In the event of death of the Member before the normal retirement age, his dependents will receive the contributions paid under the scheme and the interest which the Corporation may agree to pay thereon either in the form of an income or lump sum. The form of benefit will depend upon the legislation.

The scheme suggested above is mainly intended to provide retirement benefits to the Members of the Profession. It, however, gives no cover to his dependents in the event of premature death. It is, therefore, necessary to supplement the scheme by a scheme of Life Insurance.

Temporary Life Insurance Scheme

Provision of life-long incomes in adequate amounts to the dependents is very expensive. This, however, does not preclude any provision for the dependents. It is recommended that a regular monthly income of a fixed amount commencing on the death of the Member before age 65 and payable for a fixed period say 15 years, would be a reasonable and satisfactory insurance cover for the dependents. This cover may be provided under the temporary insurance plan.

Under this plan Member will pay a level annual premium the amount of which will depend upon the monthly income to be provided for the dependents.

If a member aged 35 wishes to provide a monthly income of Rs. 1,000 payable to his dependents for 15 years from the date of his death the sum assured required will be about Rs. 1,46,000 for which the annual premium payable by the Member will be about Rs. 2,800. If his death occurs at any time before he reaches 65, a guaranteed income of Rs. 1,000 per month will be paid to his wife, children or any other dependents for a period of 15 years.

It must be clearly understood that if the Member survives to age 65, the insurance cover will cease. This plan carries neither Surrender nor Paid-up Values and consequently on the expiry of this plan, no cash benefit will accrue. In other words, the Member, or his dependents would receive no benefits under this plan, except in the event of death prior to age 65. Member will be required to submit to the Corporation satisfactory evidence of insurability at his expense.

The Combination of the Pension and Temporary Insurance Plan should provide reasonable security to the Members of the family as well as to the Member himself after retirement. Under the Temporary Insurance Plan, the income will always cease at the end of the fixed period of 15 years and consequently if the widow of a Member survives this period, she will have no income during her old age. It is recommended that the accumulated contributions under the Pension Plan up to the time of Member's death, should be retained with the Corporation to accumulate further and when the income under the Temporary Insurance Plan has ceased, the accumulated balance under the Pension Scheme should be utilised in purchasing for the widow of the Member a Life Pension.

Broad outlines of the scheme have only been described in this note. This will form the basis of further discussions without which a scheme of this nature can rarely be finalised. Perhaps the Members would like to know what benefits would be available under a Pension Plan and also the Temporary Insurance Plan for a stated amount of contribution.

Illustration

For the purpose of this illustration, the following assumptions have been made :—

- (1) Effective Date of Membership of the Scheme and commencement of Membership, 1-4-1961.
- (2) Age completed at Entry, 35 years.
- (3) Annual Contribution Rs. 3,000.
- (4) Amount of Insurance under the Temporary Insurance Plan Rs. 50,000.
- (5) Normal retirement date 1-4-1991.

The following Assurances will be effected on the Member's life :—

1. Temporary Insurance : Sum Assured Rs. 50,000.
Annual Premium Rs. 956—(approximately).
2. A Pure Endowment :
Sum Assured Rs. 1,08,000.
Equivalent Pension Rs. 10,000
p.a. approximately.
Annual Premium Rs. 2,044

The following will be the benefits assured to him under the Scheme :—

1. On survival to age 65, i.e., 1-4-1991, a Pension of Rs. 10,900 approximately per annum payable monthly in arrear for 5 years in any event and thereafter, if the Member survives to the end of 5 years so long he lives.
2. On death before age 65—say at age 50, the sum of Rs. 50,000 under the Term Insurance and Rs. 37,500 (approximately) being the amount payable under the Pure Endowment, i.e., Pension Plan will be payable to his dependents in the form of a monthly income of Rs. 600 (approximately) for 15 years.

THE INSTITUTE OF CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS OF INDIA

Post Box No. 268,
Indraprastha Marg,
New Delhi.

26th March 1965.

Hon'ble Shri T. T. Krishnamachari,
Minister for Finance,
Government of India,
New Delhi.

Sir,

I have the honour to forward herewith two copies of the Memorandum prepared by the Council of this Institute on the Finance Bill, 1965, along with an annexure containing a summary of our submissions.

We shall be grateful if an opportunity is granted for our representatives to call on you at your convenience for discussing some of these submissions.

Yours faithfully,
C. BALAKRISHNAN
Secretary

MEMORANDUM ON THE FINANCE BILL, 1965

Introduction

The Council of my Institute are happy to note the bold and realistic approach adopted by the Finance Minister in formulating his fiscal measures contained in the Finance Bill, 1965, and the acceptance of many of the proposals contained in our Memorandum submitted to him. After years of deficit budgeting, it has now been possible to announce a surplus budget and that too after effecting reduction in the rates of personal taxation at various levels and after providing for other significant forms of tax relief. This is indeed a significant achievement.

While we believe that there is scope for a still larger measure of reduction in taxes, we heartily welcome the imaginative approach reflected in the present proposals as it augurs well for the initiation of a period of planned and systematic revision of taxes in the future years for maintaining the health of our economy and providing for its growth. We also desire to place before you the following views on the various financial proposals for your consideration and we request that they may be taken into account while provisions of the Bill are being finalised.

Comments on specific clauses of the Finance BillClause 4(iii)—Section 2(18)

This clause seeks to amend clause (18) of Section 2 of the Income-tax Act and clause (i) of Explanation 1 to that clause. Hereafter a company whose equity shares to the extent of not less than 50% (40% in the case of an industrial company) are held by another company in which the public are substantially interested, or by a 100% subsidiary of such a company will be regarded as a company in which the public are substantially interested if it satisfied the other conditions mentioned in Section 2(18). Further, in ascertaining whether the affairs of the company or the shares carrying more than 50% of its total voting power were at the time during the relevant previous year controlled or held by five or less persons, no account will be taken of a company in which the public are substantially interested, or a 100% subsidiary of such a company holding not less than 50% (or 40% as the case may be) of the equity shares of the first mentioned company. We submit that, in order to provide for shares held by foreign companies in which public are substantially interested, it is necessary to clarify that "another company in which public are substantially interested" could be even a foreign body corporate which satisfies the requirements.

We also feel that this amendment which is made applicable from the assessment year 1965-66 may be made applicable from the assessment year 1964-65, because that was the first year in which tax on companies in which the public are not substantially interested was raised from the general rate of 50% to a specific rate of 60%.

Again, it seems to us that it could not have been the intention of the Legislature that shares carrying more than 50% of the voting power should be held by each or any one of the various four entities mentioned in sub-clause (b)(i) separately or individually. There appears to be a possible drafting error and the word "or" should be replaced by the words "and/or". Therefore, we suggest that the wording of sub-clause (b) should be suitably modified to indicate that it should be sufficient if the shares carrying more than 50% of the voting power are held by any one or more of the four entities mentioned therein.

Clause 6(ii)—Section 10(6)(vii)(a)

The extension of the period for which the foreign technician is entitled to exemption from tax on his remuneration is welcome. However, we would like to repeat our submission that the conditions for exemption of remuneration received by an employee of a foreign enterprise needs to be modified. At present only those who are employed in a business carried on in India are entitled to this exemption. This causes practical difficulty when a foreign company or a foreign technician sends out its technical employees to work in a project in India. In such a case it could be argued that the foreign technician not being employed in any business carried on in India as he is not employed by a foreign company directly engaged in any business in India, he will not be entitled to the exemption. To avoid this position, it may be clarified that foreign technicians are also entitled to this exemption when they are working on or in connection with any project in India irrespective of whether or not they are employed by or in any business carried on in India.

Clause 8(i)—Section 33

The provision for granting development rebate at 25% to specific industries and reducing the rate of relief from 20% to 15% on plant and machinery commissioned after 31st March 1967 is likely to serve as a disincentive to growth as it will reduce the finance available to companies for modernisation and expansion. It may be recollected in this context that the 10% increase in the import duty has necessarily resulted in an increase in the cost of many projects which are under various stages of implementation. This new provision would certainly have an adverse effect on many of such projects. If the supply in respect of plant and machinery ordered by industries are not executed before the 31st of March 1967, the industries which placed such orders would be losing the benefit of the higher rate of development rebate for no fault of their own. Therefore, we suggest that a modification of the present provisions should be made in such a way that the reduction in respect of such firm orders placed with the suppliers by the end of April 1965 are not affected adversely by the new provisions.

We desire to bring to your notice once again the practical difficulty faced by companies in creating development rebate reserves in the year in which the rebate is effectively to be claimed. A company may have made a loss in a particular year and nonetheless made a reserve in that year. If, in the subsequent year, it makes a profit and is actually in a position to claim the benefit, as the law stands, it may be required to make a fresh reserve for that year also. This anomaly needs to be removed and the position clarified.

The provision relating to the withdrawal of development rebate acts unduly harsh in certain cases. When an existing business gets enlarged and the assessee who may be an individual or a firm converts the business into a limited company transferring the assets to the new entity, the benefits of development rebate get withdrawn. The same would be the position if the transfer was from a subsidiary to its holding company unless it was a 100% subsidiary. The existing provisions exempt sales or transfers only in connection with amalgamation or succession. It is submitted that the scope of this exemption should be considerably enlarged to cover all cases where transfer of assets is not really a sale as between two independent parties.

Clause 13—Section 40(e)(iii)

Although some relief has now been provided in the disallowance of perquisites to employees in excess of 20% of their salary, it is submitted that it is not adequate. Since perquisites are allowable to be taxed in the hands of employees receiving them, such disallowance clearly results in double taxation. Further, this measure seems to discriminate between two classes of employees, viz. one of whom receives larger salary and smaller perquisites and another which receives smaller salary and larger perquisites. Although the total cost to the company may be the same in both instances, in the former the entire cost gets deducted whereas in the latter only a part of it is deductible. This position appears to us to be both unfair and illogical and needs to be remedied.

Again, the position as to whether even taxable perquisites and allowances would come within this 20% limit needs to be clarified. To remove uncertainties and avoid companies having to carry out needless adjustments from allowances to salary, it is suggested that the law should provide clearly that perquisites under this clause would refer only to those which are not taxed in the hands of the employees. For example, in the case of house rent, the 20% of it which is tax free in the hands of the employee may form all the 20% allowable to the company, but the amount of house rent in excess on which the employee himself pays a tax may not be included.

Clause 15—Section 47

Under this amendment, transfers of capital assets from a subsidiary to its holding company will not be chargeable to capital gains under certain conditions. It is submitted that this provision does not go far enough. The exemption seems to be confined only to instances where the holding company is an Indian company. The purpose of the exemption being to ensure that Capital Gains Tax is not charged on transactions which are not really transfers at all but constitute a mere reorganisation of holdings between two companies, one of which is a 100% owner of the other, it should make no difference if any or both of them are Indian companies or foreign companies. Therefore, this distinction needs to be removed.

Further, it is suggested that transfers of capital assets between two wholly owned subsidiaries of the same holding company may also be exempt from Capital Gains Tax. Such transfers are generally effected merely with a view to the reorganising of the holding of capital assets within the same group of companies and without any intention to avoiding capital gains.

Clause 20—Section 80A

While we welcome the definite administrative convenience resulting from the change envisaged, we wish to point out that the scheme, as it is, results in a reduction in the quantum of relief available to assessee in certain income brackets compared to the position existing prior to the amendment. Reading through the Objects Clause as well as the remarks contained in the speech of the Finance Minister, it appears to us that this is clearly an unintended effect. Therefore, it is submitted that the position should be reviewed and relief provided in such a manner that all the assessee become entitled to it irrespective of the income brackets to which they might belong.

The raising of the limits in respect of amounts qualifying for reductions in the proposed Section 80A from Rs. 10,000 to Rs. 12,500 is welcome. However, it may be pointed out that the maximum permissible amount in respect of contribution to provident fund has been maintained at the same figure of Rs. 8,000 as the same is limited to the extent provided in Rule 7 of Part A of the Fourth Schedule to the Income-tax Act, 1961. In many companies employees are allowed to contribute voluntarily to recognised provident funds and in view of the increase in the limits, it is suggested that the qualifying amounts in respect of provident fund may also be raised to ½th of the salary subject to a maximum amount of Rs. 12,500.

There appears to exist some ambiguity on account of the peculiar drafting of the Section. Sub-section (1) of Section 80A lays down that an amount equal to 50% of the aggregate of the sums specified in Sub-section (2) can be deducted while computing the total income of an assessee. Now, Sub-section (2) contains six clauses, viz. (a) to (f). Sub-clause (a) itself lists three items in the case of individual assessee as alternatives, viz. sums paid to effect a life insurance, a deferred annuity and sums paid as contribution to provident fund to which the Provident Funds Act of 1925 applies. It would appear that since these three items are listed as alternatives, in any aggregation of the sums mentioned in sub-section (2) only one of them can be aggregated with items mentioned in clause (b) to (f). This results in an individual assessee being denied the advantage of a reduction in respect of all the three items. The intention does not appear to be this at all. The position, therefore, needs to be clarified by making suitable modifications in the wording of the section.

Clause 20—Section 80B

Under this clause relief is provided for medical treatment of a physically or mentally disabled person who is a relative of the tax-payer and is solely dependent on him. We feel that this benefit should not be denied to persons whose income exceeds Rs. 20,000. In view of the prevailing high cost of medical treatment, particularly for incapacitated persons, it is urged that the relief should be able to everyone irrespective of the quantum of his total income.

Clause 80B(2) requires that in order to claim the benefit the handicapped dependent should have been admitted in a hospital or a nursing home or any medical institution for a period of 182 days or more during the previous year. It is not clear why the number of days have been limited to 182 days. If a person is in hospital or a nursing home for 182 days, the charge would far exceed the allowance of Rs. 2,400 contemplated in the clause. Again, the denial of the concession in case of more than one dependent handicapped relative is also unjustified. There is also not much justification for limiting the benefit only in respect of expenditure incurred on dependents and not on the assessee himself. We submit that the present provisions are not likely to prove beneficial unless a liberal view is taken of the issue. It is also to be ensured that no meticulous examination and enquiry would precede the granting of this benefit and that only proof of the expenditure incurred should be sufficient for allowing this sum as relief.

Clause 20—Section 80C

This clause represents the first attempt in the history of our Tax legislation to encourage self-employed persons to make provisions for their maintenance as well as the maintenance of their dependents after their retirement from active life. While we are grateful for the acceptance of our submission in this regard, we wish to point out that the conditions with which this relief is hedged at present are unduly restrictive and needs to be modified. The relief is now made available only to partners of registered firms. It may be noted that in all professions there are large number of self-employed persons who function as sole practitioners. There are also professions where members are specifically prohibited from forming partnerships. It is necessary, therefore, to provide this relief irrespective of the fact whether the assessee are partners or not. Since the annuity, when received, will be taxable in any case, it should be considered immaterial whether a person practises his profession on his own or as a partner of a registered firm. We also submit that the restriction placed on surrender, commutation or assigning taking place should be relaxed after the assessee has attained 58 years of age.

It may be noted that as per clause 1(2) of the Finance Bill, the benefit under this clause is meant to be available for the assessment year 1965-66. One of the conditions entitling a person to claim this benefit is that he should have paid out of his income chargeable to tax a premium under an annuity contract which is approved by the Commissioner. The procedure of gaining approval of the Commissioner in respect of the annuity contract or the contribution to a fund envisaged in Section 80C(4) could necessarily take place only after 31st of March 1965. Therefore, it may be clarified immediately that payments entitling an assessee to this relief in respect of 1965-66 assessment could be made even up to September 1965. A better alternative would be to provide for it in the Act itself as was done in the United Kingdom in the Finance Act of 1956 when the same type of problem arose in that country.

Clauses 30 and 31—Sections 104 and 109

The Bill is particularly harsh on trading companies. In the case of private manufacturing companies a significant relief has been given in regard to the rate of tax chargeable on the first ten lakhs of rupees of their income. The benefit of this lower rate of tax is not made available to a growing class of private companies rendering very essential consultancy service to industrial concerns including various technical, managerial, engineering and other consultants who operate within the framework of a company. It is also not clear whether the benefit of this low rate will be available to certain industries like production of cinematographic pictures, newspaper concerns and building contractors who are obviously engaged in what may be regarded as manufacturing or processing activity. It is desirable that the concession should be extended to those companies also. It is submitted that in a complex economy there is room for companies to perform a variety of functions and it is not only manufacturing companies which are conducive to the economic development of the country. It is therefore submitted that the relief given in regard to the rate of tax on the first ten lakhs of the income of a private limited company should apply to all private companies and not merely to manufacturing companies.

Clauses 36 and 37—Sections 114 and 115

We submit that the small relief given in respect of Capital Gains Tax on bonus shares does not go far enough to remove the inequity involved in taking a notional capital gain. It cannot be too strongly urged that bonus issue does not represent any capital gains to the shareholders. Moreover with this taxing of the notional capital gains bonus shares are not likely to be issued and therefore there would be no gain to Revenue while the provision would still remain as a major deterrent to the revival of the capital market. Although the tax does not hit the small investor since no capital gains tax liability would arise unless capital gains exceed Rs. 5,000, he stands to suffer because persons who have larger stakes in companies and who are in charge of the management will not be inclined to issue bonus shares as long as this provision exists. The Government have appreciated the possibility of making corporate investment much more broad based by encouraging growth of a new class of middle class investors. It is, therefore, desirable that any impediment in the way of their growth should be removed as expeditiously as possible. It is submitted that savings that might result from the relief in personal tax are unlikely to find their way to the capital market as long as the climate of investment continues to be unfavourable. We submit that it is not enough to merely provide scope for savings. It is also necessary that incentives for investment are provided simultaneously. In industries such incentives can be created only by enabling them to be as prosperous as efficiency would justify and by enabling the units to reward its shareholders with attractive current returns as well as capital appreciation. It is in this context that my Council repeats its request that both the Dividend Tax and the Bonus Tax may be abolished.

Clause 62—Section 280Z

The new section provides for the grant of tax credit certificate to an individual or a Hindu undivided family in respect of amounts subscribed to an eligible issue of capital by a public company. It is submitted that the term "eligible issue of shares" should be exhaustively defined in the Income-tax Act. It should be clarified that an eligible issue of shares means an issue of shares made by a company on or after 1st April 1964 provided the company makes a public issue of shares under the Securities (Contract Regulation) Act after 23rd December 1964. All shares forming part of the initial issue as and when allotted should be eligible for this benefit.

We feel that the procedure involved is cumbersome and the entire scheme complicated and the time and labour involved possibly not worth the relief offered. Therefore, it is suggested that in its place the tax-payer may be offered a more simple investment allowance by way of straight forward deduction from the total income on the lines provided now in respect of life insurance premium, etc. It should also be clarified that once an assessee proved his investment and produced the share certificates as evidence before an income-tax officer, the benefit should be allowed without there being any further protracted enquiries.

Clause 62—Sections 280ZB and 280ZD

It is observed that the benefits of these tax credit certificates are available to persons who satisfy certain conditions. One such condition is that the amount represented should be utilised by the company in repaying loans from approved financial institutions or in redeeming its debentures. The necessity of these conditions is not clear. It is submitted that this condition would detract in practice any benefit available from the issue of such certificates. A particular company not having taken loans from these institutions or issued debentures will be denied the benefit. So will a company which has taken such loans, but repaid them or redeemed their debentures by this time. It would be extremely unfair that they are being denied this merely because they have followed a prudent financial policy. We consider that it should be left to the management concerned to finance the business either from one's own funds or by taking loans from a notified institution or from others. It is common knowledge that in certain parts of the country concerns find it easier to finance their business by receiving deposits. In the circumstances it is suggested that the issue of tax credit certificates may not be linked to any condition relating to redemption of debentures or repayment of approved loans. It is also suggested that it may be clearly spelt out that the benefit would be available also where an equal amount is invested in fixed assets or in shares of any public company engaged in business of construction, manufacture or production of any or more of the articles or things specified in the list in the Fifth Schedule to the Income-tax Act or even towards payment of taxes. If the intention in hedging it with a condition is only to ensure that the amount represented by the certificates is not frittered away, it may be even provided that the amounts should be transferred to a Reserve account and dealt with in the same manner as a reserve for development rebate and get utilised wholly for the purpose of business.

It is seen that certain tax credit certificates such as those relating to export and increased production apply to all the shares whereas others such as the one relating to increased income apply only to companies engaged in specified industries. It is submitted that the tax credit certificate provision should apply to all the assesseees irrespective of whether they are companies, individuals, firms, etc., and irrespective of the industry in which they are engaged.

Clause 62—Section 280ZC.

We find that the benefit is confined to exports of goods or merchandise. It is submitted that it should also apply where the export is of services. We learn that this issue was discussed in the Export Import Advisory Council's meeting held in New Delhi in the middle of February 1965 when the Commerce Minister's kind attention was drawn to the need for evolving appropriate scheme for export of services such as banking, shipping, insurance as well as consultancy in fields like architecture, engineering, design, etc. We also wish to point out that there are some instances where members of our Institute are rendering professional services outside the country and earning foreign exchange. We submit that in such cases also relief may be provided.

Clause 62—Section 280ZD.

Tax credit certificate for increased production is seen to be linked to the amount of excise duty rather than to the amount of production. There appears to exist some contradiction in this respect compared to the explanation in respect of this scheme in the speech of the Finance Minister. The Finance Minister, in his Budget speech, had stated that the benefit would be applicable to the extent of 25% of the central excise duty on production, in addition to the production in the base year. On the other hand, the Finance Bill provides for the tax credit certificates on the total additional excise duty paid, i.e. after taking into account variations in the rates of excise duty. It is suggested that the Finance Bill and all the Rules to be made thereunder should provide for certificates on the production basis rather than the money amount of the excise duty. If the excise duty rates come down, a company with increased production may still find itself unable to obtain advantage of the certificate. Moreover, excise duty payable in a particular year is not always related to the production in the particular year. Certain items of production may have been shipped directly to warehouses in which case payment of excise duty gets postponed to a subsequent year. Again, the present provisions permit no advantage to a company which manufactures or produces non-excisable goods even though production of such goods may have been proved. Therefore, we submit that the grant of tax credit certificate under this provision should be linked to the volume of production rather than the amount of excise duty payable.

Generally, the positive inducement held out for improving manufacture, production and export is through a system of incentives. We would like to point out that as a matter of administrative improvement it would have been far better that the details of the scheme get evolved and announced at the earliest opportunity. Instead of leaving details of the scheme to be specified later, it is suggested that the respective provisions should lay down the extent to which benefit is sought to be given under the Act itself. The tendency for leaving detailed schemes to be worked out later leads to unavoidable delay. Opportunity for a full and detailed discussion and appreciation of the points involved before the schemes get finalised will also be lacking. It is therefore submitted that while framing details of the three schemes, views of established industries and provincial organisations may be ascertained. The appointment of a sufficiently representative consultative committee for dealing with these matters on a permanent basis may also be considered. We also consider it necessary to incorporate a provision in the Income-tax Act that there will be no modification of these provisions relating to tax credit certificates or in the scheme for a period of five years so that an element of certainty is injected into these provisions.

Clause 68—Voluntary disclosure of income.

We submit that the present scheme may be modified in one or two respects to make it really effective. Thus, the time provided for payment of taxes may be extended. Extension of immunity to liability under the other direct taxes as well as the question of extending this benefit in instances where the assesseees are prepared to withdraw their appeals in matters of assessment under various direct taxes Acts may also be considered. In any event, we submit that it should be made clear that this is the last and final chance that is being held out and that the Government intends to come down with a heavy hand on those who would indulge in this anti-social activity.

Clause 69.

I. Section 10 of the Estate Duty Act.

Under this clause a further proviso is proposed to be added to the Section. This provides effect being given to the decision in the case of : A-G vs. Seccombe, (1911) 2 K.B. 688.

However, the proviso does not deal with the very large number of cases in which estate duty is sought to be levied by reason of the decision of the Privy Council in the case of: Chick vs. Commissioner of Stamp Duty, New South Wales, (1958) 2 All E.R. 623: Where the donor resides in the premises but pays rent to the donee.

The Privy Council pointed out in Chick's case that the provision relating to exclusion from possession and that relating to exclusion from any benefit by contract or otherwise were two distinct conditions for non-liability to estate duty, and that even if the donee was excluded from any benefit in respect of the property donated by the non-reservation of any right in favour of the donor either under the relevant disposition or under any collateral disposition, yet if the donor was not excluded from the physical possession of the property, estate duty would become payable even though he paid rack-rent to the donee.

In the U.K., the hardship of the decision was removed by the passing of the Finance Act, 1959, vide Section 35(2). At present, in the U.K., if the donor occupies the gifted property on payment of rack-rent to the donee, estate duty does not become payable in the case.

It is submitted that the law in India should be brought in line with the U.K. provisions. After all if no estate duty becomes payable merely because the donor resides in the gifted property there is a fortiori a case for the exclusion of duty in those cases in which the donor pays rent to the donee, because, in that case, the donee's absolute right to the gifted property is even further confirmed. Bona fide commercial transactions including transactions of partnership wherein the donor and the donee give and receive full consideration in money or money's worth should be free from the charge of estate duty. That is the legal position in the U.K. and it is submitted that the same principles should prevail in respect of Estate Duty Law in India.

It is, therefore, submitted that a provision should be inserted in Section 10 on the line of Section 35(2) of the Finance Act, 1959.

II. Section 11 of the Act.

A similar addition is proposed to be made in Section 11 of the Act. It is submitted that as in the U.K. it may be clarified that retention or assumption by the limited owner of actual possession shall be disregarded if it is for full consideration in money or money's worth.

III. Section 12 of the Act.

Here also a similar proviso is proposed to be added and it is submitted that the amendment should comprise the provisions relating to non-liability of estate duty in case the possession is for consideration in money or money's worth.

IV. Section 22 of the Act.

Here also a similar proviso is proposed to be added, and it is submitted that the matter should be clarified as in the case of sections 10, 11 and 12.

Clause 70—Business and Corporate Taxation

Clause 70 of the Finance Bill, which seeks to amend the Wealth Tax Act, gives a five year Wealth Tax Holiday to persons who invest in shares of the initial issue of the equity share capital made after 28th February, 1965 by an industrial concern in India. The value of such shares will not be chargeable to Wealth Tax for a period of five successive years. In actual practice, a difficulty is likely to arise in absence of a specific definition of the term "initial issue of equity share capital". There are several companies registered during the last couple of years for industrial projects which are still to go into operation. In such cases, there have been issue of only small number of shares. The major issue to the public is yet to be made. In such case, the Department may well argue that the public issue of share capital for implementation of the project is not the initial issue entitled to tax concession. This requires to be clarified before the Bill is passed.

Clause 74—Sur Tax Act.

While we submit that sur tax has retarded capital formation and therefore need to be withdrawn altogether, the following features of this tax need to be suitably rectified if the tax is to be retained.

(a) An undistributed balance standing to the credit of profit and loss account should be treated in the same way as a credit balance on general reserve account. At present, the former is not includible in the computation of capital base. In accounting theory and practice both balances are treated alike and both are available for payment of dividends, etc. There is therefore no logical reason for differentiating between them for computation of capital base.

(b) Share premium account is not at present includible in the capital base unless it is received in cash. This is unfair and illogical.

(c) The capital base should be computed by reference to the average capital employed during the year, as is the case of capital computation of new industrial undertakings. It is not fair to compute the capital base only by reference to the position at the commencement of the year.

(d) Although the Income tax on the company is deductible from its profits before charging sur tax, the dividend tax payable by it is not so deductible. This leads to double taxation and needs to be remedied.

(e) There should be a provision in this Regulation permitting "deficiency" to be carried forward just as is provided under the provisions relating to Super Profits Tax.

OTHER SPECIFIC SUGGESTIONS

(1) Dividend Tax.

A survey of the provisions relating to taxes on corporations makes it clear that the burden on companies has been steadily going up. This has affected the distributable surplus. A stage has now been reached where it is not sufficient for a shareholder to merely know that his company has been enabled to grow. What matters to him is the yield which his investment brings out. When a variety of measures serve to keep the dividends down, the investors will not be enthusiastic. It is therefore unfortunate that the dividend tax has been retained.

In this context we would like to state that if the intention is to avoid frittering away of resources, what is necessary is probably the limitation of dividend, not absolutely, but to some percentage of each year's current earnings in a manner which would set a premium on efficiency. It is submitted that the tax may be made applicable only to that part of the dividends which exceed at least 10% of the paid-up equity capital.

(2) Registered Firm Tax.

We would like to repeat our submission made more than once before that the Registered Firm Tax should be entirely abolished. The arguments against this tax are only too well known and do not need to be repeated. The tax is discriminatory because for the same amount of income, a person pays a larger amount of tax if he earns the income as Partner in a firm than if he earns it as a sole individual. Even if the registered firms tax is not completely abolished, it should be abolished at least in the case of Professional firms. The present slight relief given to Professional firms in the matter of sur charge is hardly adequate for this purpose, but does recognise the fact that, in the Government's own view, Professional firms deserve to be treated on a different footing from business firms.

(3) Section 84—Income of newly established industrial undertakings or hotels.

The benefit of this Section is available for a period of five years from the year in which a company commences production, but due to heavy depreciation in the earlier years and the development rebate, the profits of the first two to three years, if not more, are absorbed, and hence the benefit of the tax holiday is not, in effect, available for the full period. According to the provisions of the income-tax law, tax holiday is available to a company only after providing depreciation and development rebate. This creates a great hardship to companies which are engaged in capital intensive industries.

It is, therefore, suggested that the allowance for tax holiday should precede the allowance for development rebate and arrears of depreciation.

(4) Annuity Deposits.

In view of the amount of resources it has added to the coffers of the Government, it may be difficult to think in terms of its total abolition. However, the practical difficulties involved in giving effect to the scheme, as it stands at present, makes us suggested that in the place of the cumbersome accounting procedure to be followed, assesses may be required to invest the requisite sum in National Savings Certificates. This will help in reducing accounting difficulties as well as reduce the administrative problems involved in repaying or returning the amount in instalments.

We also submit that the rate of interest paid on these deposits at present is too low and needs to be increased. The Government have already increased the rate of interest on delayed payment of tax as well as delayed refunds to 6%. Interest on Gold Bonds have also been increased to 7%. There has also been an increase in the bank rate. Therefore, it is suggested that the interest on Annuity Deposit may be paid at the rate of 60 p.c. compound interest.

(5) Lumpsum payments for purchase of Technical Know-how.

In cases of foreign collaboration, it is customary for technical know-how to be purchased from the collaborator, not only for receiving knowledge in the matter of construction of buildings, lay out, etc., but also in respect of manufacturing processes in the shape of designs, drawings, charts, flow sheets, manuals, etc. While the former type of know-how pertaining to construction of buildings, layouts etc., is allowed to be added to the capital cost, on which depreciation and development rebate are allowed, the tax authorities do not allow the write-off in respect of technical know-how of the second type, viz., for manufacturing processes.

It is urged that this type of expenditure is very necessary in the present context of rapid industrialisation of the country, and should be allowed as a write-off against taxable income in suitable instalments. One suggestion would be that this expenditure should be allowed to be written off when production commences in five equated instalments on the analogy of capital expenditure on research (vide section 35(1)(iv) read with section 35(2)). In the alternative, it may be allowed to be written off in the same manner as expenditure on patents and copyrights, viz. over a period of fourteen years.

At present, expenditure for manufacturing know-how, which is patented, is allowed to be written off in fourteen years, but expenditure on processes not patented is disallowed. It is submitted that the benefit should be extended to them as well and that the executive direction in respect of amortisation should be incorporated in the Act itself.

Expenditure incurred by a company prior to commencement of production is not allowed to be charged against profits when the company goes into production. Some of this expenditure relates to items of a revenue nature, and should be allowed to be written off against future profits. At present, a part of the expenditure is allowed to be capitalised on the premise that it relates to construction, but that part which relates to item of a revenue nature is disallowed.

It is suggested that so much of the expenditure which is not permitted to be added to the cost of construction should be allowed to be written off against future income.

When loans are raised from financial institutions, such as I.C.I.C.I., I.F.C., etc., the expenditure incurred in raising such loans in the shape of stamp duties, examination fees, legal charges, etc., is not allowed as a charge against income, nor is it treated as capital expenditure and depreciation allowed thereon.

It is suggested that such expenditure should be permitted to be written off against revenue in equal instalments over the period of the loan. By the same token, similar expenditure for the purpose of raising debenture money should also be allowed.

In most cases, loans or debentures mentioned above are raised for periods of between seven to fifteen years, and, therefore, expenditure of type mentioned above is not of the same variety incurred for raising the share capital of a company, the benefit of which lasts for the company's life time.

We find that while Section 2(22)(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, treats bonus shares as dividends in the hands of preference shareholders, Section 45A(2) of the Finance Act, 1964, levies capital gains tax in respect of them in the hands of ordinary shareholders. Moreover, clause 4(2)(iv) of the Finance Bill, 1965, provides for the avoidance of double taxation of the same amount by exempting bonus shares in the hands of ordinary shareholders being considered as dividend under section 2(22)(d) at the time of liquidation whereas this benefit is not extended in respect of bonus shares received by the preference shareholders and which are to be assessed as dividends under section 2(22)(b). The reason for this difference in treatment is not clear and needs to be looked into.

GENERAL

As usual, the budget proposals reveal an undue emphasis on the revenue side. It would be a trite proposition to comment at this stage that, after all, revenues are needed only for meeting expenditure to be incurred. Compared with the revised estimates for the current year, it is seen that during 1965-66, revenue expenditure is expected to increase by 117 crores and capital expenditure by nearly 99 crores. Of this total of 216 crores, 44 crores may be considered as unavoidable due to increase in the defence expenditure but the remaining 172 crores reflect increase in the outlay of the Third Plan which has to be financed basically from the funds of the Central Government. The revenue side of the budget also exhibits this very same tendency. Revenue estimates for the current year show an excess of not less than 104 crores above the budget estimates made a year back. It is quite possible that if an attempt had been made to effect economy in public expenditure and compute the cost of outlay as well as revenues with a greater sense of accuracy, there would have been ample scope for making available adequate tax relief in both personal and corporate taxation. Such a step would have gone to improve the tone of the economy making for further investments leading to an increase in the national product itself. We would, therefore, like to re-emphasise that what is required now is the initiation of integrated economic policy resulting in stimulation of savings and investments and quickening the pace of economic development. We submit that the broad policy in the field of taxation for the entire Fourth Plan period may be announced simultaneously with the Plan. In this context, my Council feels the need for conducting an objective and scientific study of the whole structure of both public expenditure and taxation.

We, therefore, submit that the Government may announce immediately the appointment of a Commission manned by experts possessing specialised knowledge to conduct a comprehensive enquiry into both taxation and public expenditure, whose terms of reference will cover : taxation and public expenditure in all its aspects—Central, State and Local. We feel certain that the labours of such a body would assist in laying the foundation of a taxation system best fitted for the development of the economy of the country on a firm and sound basis for the years to come.

My Council will be grateful if it as afforded an opportunity to meet the Finance Minister for a more detailed discussion of some of the submissions made in this Memorandum.

A. ADVANCED PAYMENT OF ANNUITY DEPOSIT UNDER SECTION 280J OF THE INCOME-TAX ACT, 1961

Letter dated 20th October 1964 from the President to Hon'ble Shri T. T. Krishnamachari.

On behalf of the Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, I submit for your kind consideration the following practical difficulty that has arisen in a number of cases already as a result of the provisions of Section 140A and 280J inserted in the Income-tax Act by the Finance Act, 1964.

Under Section 140A, assessee are required, for Assessment Year 1964-65 onwards, to pay within a month of the submission of their Return of Income the balance of Income-tax payable on the basis of the Return, if it exceeds Rs. 500. A similar provision has been made by Section 280J in respect of Annuity Deposit. Owing to the alterations in the rates of taxation made by the Finance Act, 1964, even in cases where the income for Assessment Year 1964-65 is somewhat higher than that for the relevant earlier year on the basis on which an assessee may have paid Advance Tax as demanded by the Income-tax Officer, the Income-tax at the current rates works out to considerably less than in the previous year. Therefore large amounts often become refundable to the Assessee, subject to completion by the Income-tax Officer of the assessment. Despite this position, Section 280-J requires payment, within a month of the submission of the Return, of Annuity Deposits, without any deduction for the excess Income-tax already paid. This causes considerable hardship, as assesseees are required to pay large amounts at relatively short notice by way of advance Annuity Deposit, whereas the actual refund of Income-tax already paid in advance for the very same year is received by them very much later, after the Income-tax Officer completes the assessment.

It is therefore submitted that it would be just and equitable if directions were issued to the Income-tax Officer to the effect that, in cases such as outlined above, the demand for advance payment of Annuity Deposit may be permitted to be kept in abeyance until the refund of Income-tax has been authorised by the Income-tax Officer.

Reply dated 30th October 1964 from the Under Secretary to the Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue & Company Law.

A reference is invited to your letter dated the 20th October 1964 to the Minister of Finance regarding the subject mentioned above, suggesting that in cases where the advance tax paid by an assessee in respect of the assessment year 1964-65 exceeds his liability to tax on the income returned by him, the advance payment of annuity deposit under Section 280-J of the Income-tax Act on the basis of the returned income should be kept in abeyance till the issue of the refund of the excess amount of advance tax.

2. It will be observed that Section 280-J of the Income-tax Act requires an assessee to make an annuity deposit on the basis of the income returned by him only in cases where income-tax is payable by the assessee on the basis of self-assessment under Section 140A of the Act. Tax is payable on self-assessment under Section 140A of the Income-tax Act only where the tax payable on the basis of the return furnished by the assessee, as reduced by any tax deducted at source or paid in advance, exceeds Rs. 500. It follows from this that where an assessee has paid advance tax in excess of the tax chargeable on the total income returned by him, he will neither be liable to pay tax on self-assessment under Section 140A, nor to make an annuity deposit under Section 280-J of the Act on the basis of the income returned by him. In such a case, annuity deposit will be required to be made by the assessee on completion of a provisional or regular assessment by the Income-tax Officer when the refund due to the assessee on account of the excess payment of advance tax will also be issued to him. Thus, the hardship referred to by you does not appear to arise.

B. PAYMENT OF INTEREST UNDER DEFERRED PAYMENT CONTRACTS

Note of the Council

In large number of recent cases where a foreign collaborator or some other foreign agency agrees to supply plant and machinery under deferred payment contracts, such contracts clearly state the amount of cost of plant and machinery with a stipulation for payment of interest at an agreed rate with each instalment of deferred payment.

If the Indian company were to borrow money for acquiring such plant and machinery, interest payable on such borrowings would clearly be in the nature of an allowable deduction against profits for income-tax purposes.

However, in the above cases, the Department seems to have taken the view that any interest payable under a deferred payment contract for supply of plant and machinery cannot be allowed as a deduction since it is not interest payable on any borrowing of capital.

It appears that the Department relies on the decision in Metro Theatre, Bombay vs. C.I.T. (1946 I.T.R.P. 638), the ratio of which is that a mere purchase of a capital asset on a long term credit with a stipulation for payment of interest on the unpaid balance of the price does not amount to the borrowing of capital and therefore interest payments could not constitute interest on capital borrowed.

It is submitted, with due respect to the Department, that the ultimate effect is the same whether one borrows a loan for the purpose of acquiring plant and machinery or, alternatively, comes to an arrangement whereby the equipment is financed under a deferred payment contract stipulating for payment of interest.

It may be pointed out that of late the Department has taken the view that although such interests cannot be allowed to be written off against revenue, the Department would allow such interests payments to be added on to the cost of machinery for the purpose of allowing development rebate and depreciation. This concession, however, creates a further difficulty in so far as such interest is payable not only at the time of acquiring of the plant and machinery but throughout the period of deferred payments.

It may also be pointed out that even according to normally accepted principles of Accountancy, payment of such interest on deferred contracts must be treated as revenue expenditure and cannot be treated as capital expenditure. This matter was referred to the Expert Advisory Committee of our Institute, which has come to the conclusion that the Auditor of the Company would not be justified in permitting capitalisation of such interest since that would fail to show a true and fair position on the business of the company.

It is, therefore, requested that necessary instructions may be issued to permit such payment of interest being allowed against the revenue like any other payment of interest in the course of business.

Reply received from the Government

The matter has been carefully examined and it has been decided that under the provision of the Income-tax Act, as it stands at present, the interest liability incurred against the purchase of plant and machinery from abroad on deferred payment terms cannot be allowed as revenue expenditure under Section 36(1)(iii) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. However such expenditure, being of capital nature, will be added to the written down value of the plant and machinery, in the years in which it is actually incurred, and the assessee will be entitled to claim depreciation allowance in accordance with the prescribed rates.

Necessary instructions to that effect have also been issued to the Commissioners of Income-tax.

Goodwill—Admission of New Partners by Professional Firms—Chargeability of Value of Goodwill to Gift Tax Letter dated 18th August 1964, from Dr. R. C. Cooper, President, to Hon'ble Shri T. T. Krishnamachari.

The attention of my Council has been drawn to a large number of cases in which the Income-tax Department has started proceedings against members of professional bodies, particularly Chartered Accountants and Lawyers, under the Gift Tax Act, where junior assistants working in professional firms and other promising young persons have been admitted as partners without charging goodwill.

The contention of the Department is that since at the time of admission of these new partners no goodwill was charged by the continuing partners, there is an element of gift in the transaction which can be subjected to gift tax.

I would respectfully point out that this contention of the Department is not well founded for the following reasons :—

1. The question of gift could arise only if there is either no consideration or inadequacy of consideration. In all such cases the consideration for admitting such junior partners is that they share the burden of professional work of the firm.
2. As the senior partners become old their capacity for work decreases.
3. There could be no intention of avoidance of tax since each such junior partner has to be a qualified member of a recognised professional body and has to pass professional examinations.
4. In most cases these junior partners are in no way related to the existing partners.
5. Often the in-coming junior partners bring in fresh work which increases the income of the firm.
6. In case of a professional firm where the professional fees depend almost entirely on the ability of partners, the goodwill has a purely personal element depending on the ability of the person.

Under the circumstances, there seems to be no justification whatsoever in taking proceedings in such bona fide cases under the Gift Tax Act. Initiation of gift tax proceedings causes a serious harassment to professional persons and would, on the contrary, discourage the healthy practice of admitting junior partners in professional firms without charging goodwill.

I shall be most grateful if you will kindly examine this matter sympathetically and issue necessary instructions to the Income-tax Authorities not to cause hardships in bona fide cases of professional firms through such proceedings under the Gift Tax Act.

Reply contained in letter No. 12/2764-GT, dated 5th April 1965, from Shri G. R. Hegde, Secretary of the Central Board of Direct Taxes, New Delhi.

I am directed to refer to your letter dated 18th August, 1964 to the Union Finance Minister.

2. The matter has been carefully examined. Normally when persons are admitted as working partners and are given only a right of sharing in the profits without being entitled to any share in the assets of the firm (including goodwill) it may be said that the shares in the profits allotted to them are quid pro quo for the services rendered by them unless the particular circumstances of the case indicate that the shares allotted to the incoming partners are disproportionate to the labour and effort put in by them. If the incoming partner is also given the right to a share in the existing assets (including goodwill), then ordinarily gift tax would be attracted unless there is further evidence to prove that the incoming partner has paid for his share of the assets including goodwill.

3. These points will have to be examined on the facts of each case in arriving at the conclusion as to whether in a particular case a moiety of the goodwill has been parted with in favour of the incoming partners and whether there has been an adequate consideration for such a moiety.

4. The decision in each case will necessarily have depend on the particular facts and circumstances of the case and no general rule can, therefore, be laid down for such cases.

APPENDIX "J"

(Reference Section IX J of the Report)

Memorandum to the Fourth Finance Commission on the Financial Statements and Reports of State Governments

1. In India, as in the U.K., Government Accounts, both of the Central, as well as of State Governments, are maintained only in respect of Receipts and Payments, apart from the creation of Sinking Funds for redemption of Loans and of Depreciation Funds for replacement of Assets. The Financial Statements of the State Governments do not reveal : (a) the Assets and Liabilities of the State as at the end of the relevant Financial Year; and (b) the Revenue Results of the activities of the State Government for the relevant Financial Year.

2. Even the Statements of Assets and Liabilities as at the end of the Financial Year, 1962-63 furnished to the Commission by twelve of the States in the pro forma prescribed, (—Maharashtra and Assam have not furnished such Statements as they do not appear to have in sufficient detail the information necessary for their compilation—), appear to be designed primarily to show the Sources and Application of Funds by each of the States. The nature of the amounts shown against certain heads (particularly in the case of Asset—heads intended to represent Outlay on Development Activities) and the correct amount of the total Funds belonging to the relevant State, (comprising mainly its accumulated Revenue Surpluses of a number of years brought forward), are not self-evident in the Statement. Certain other features of these Statements which appear to call for comment or clarification have been remarked on in the accompanying Statement, marked "Annexure 1". Moreover, no Income and Expenditure Statements have been furnished and the information given does not permit :—

- Analysis of Income and Expenditure referable to specific Funds/Assets;
- ascertainment and review of the yields or returns on Investments in what should be return-bearing Investments;
- correlation of the expenditure on Development Activities analysed under each head of account with available data in non-financial form regarding the results achieved; and
- comparison of the relative proportions of the contributions by the self-generated, as against the borrowed, sources of Funds to the total Expenditure.

3. We have been asked to assist in drafting Forms of Financial Statements which could be adopted uniformly by all the States, displaying information in a manner which would be self-revealing. For the purpose of preparation of Financial Statements in proper and self-explanatory form, which would make possible meaningful analysis and comparison, and significant conclusions, in respect of State Government activities, we consider it inevitable that there should be a gradual evolution in the system of Government Accounting towards :—

(a) a proper differentiation between Capital and Revenue; and

(b) Accounting for Income and Expenditure, instead of merely for Receipts and Payments.

4. We would stress that a change to the Income and Expenditure system of Accounting does not necessarily compel adoption of the "Mercantile" or "Accrual" basis as against the "Cash" or "Actual Receipt and Payment" basis. In fact, the Income and Expenditure Accounts of State Governments should continue to be based on mainly the "Cash" method of accounting, so far as most Revenue transactions are concerned. Only Provision for : (a) Depreciation of Fixed Assets; (b) Amortization of Deferred Revenue Expenditure; and (c) Redemption of Loans, should continue to be accounted for,—as is already being done for (a) and (c),—on what may be considered to be an "Accrual" basis.

5. In the first reform that we envisage, each and every payment apart, of course, from payments recording Short-term Assets, e.g., temporary advances, or in reduction of Liabilities—of a State Government would be analysed to the appropriate head of Account under one of three broad groups, as either :—

(1) of purely Revenue nature, to be charged off in full against the Revenues of the Current Financial Year;

OR

(2) of Deferred Revenue nature, e.g., "payment of Compensation to Landholders on the abolition of the Zamindari system", or other similar Outlay on Development Activities, not resulting in the creation of tangible Fixed Assets which it is considered necessary to retain permanently for the carrying on by Government of its activities, but nonetheless expected to yield benefits over several years : these should be "amortised", i.e., charged off by instalments against the Revenues of a specified number of future Financial Years, over which the benefit of having incurred this outlay will be derived.

OR

(3) of Fixed Asset nature, i.e., such tangible physical assets (apart from Cash) such as Office Buildings, Furniture, Public Works and the like, which it is considered must be held in perpetuity—though of course with due replacements and additions periodically on exhaustion of their useful working life—as incidental to and essential for the carrying on by Government of its activities : the cost of these assets would be charged against the Revenues of the Financial Years over which their useful working life will extend in the form of annual Provision for Depreciation.

6. The second major reform we envisage is the preparation of a Balance Sheet as at the end of each Financial Year by every State, so as to disclose a true and fair view of all its assets and liabilities and of the state of its affairs as a result of its Government's activities during the year. At present, what is prepared is in the nature of a Receipts and Payments Account in three parts; Part I summarising the receipts and outgoings during the year from the Consolidated Fund; Part II from the Contingency Fund; and Part III from the Public Account. This reflects, inter alia, the Opening and Closing Balances at the commencement and close respectively of the Financial Year, but not the amounts of the other Assets and Liabilities than the cash representing the Balances of these three Funds. This is somewhat analogous to a Company showing only its Cash and Bank Balances at the start and end of each year's working, without disclosing any of its other Assets, or its Liabilities. This is hardly sufficient information for a full and fair consideration of the whole position, from which meaningful comparisons can be drawn as to the relative efficiency and effectiveness of a State Government. We therefore consider that the preparation of a Balance Sheet disclosing all the assets and liabilities of the State Government at the end of each year would be a major step forward towards presentation of better and more useful Financial Statements and Reports.

7. Of course, we recognise the tremendous difficulties that do exist in the effective implementation of these recommendations. The system of Government Accounting would have to be systematically reviewed and revised. This cannot be done overnight. But equally it must be recognised that there would be little point in attempting to draft Forms of periodical Financial Statements which would truly and fully reflect the state of affairs and make meaningful comparisons and conclusions possible when the basic accounting records and data from which such Statements are to be prepared do not themselves contain the required information. We therefore recommend that a beginning in the directions we have indicated be now attempted. For this purpose, we have prepared and send herewith, as Annexures 2 and 3, draft Forms of : (a) Income and Expenditure Account or Revenue Statement, and (b) Balance Sheet, with clarificatory Notes for their compilation. These could form the basis for a discussion of the practical problems involved between the representatives of the Commission, the Comptroller and Auditor General and the Council of this Institute, with a view to working out a phased programme for implementation of the changes necessary to enable the preparation of annual Statements on these lines by every State Government.

7. Mysore	341,37·79	307,68·89	33,68·89	—	1. Value of Assets includes Negative (Cr.) Balances of Rs. 198·95 lacs and Rs. 1·01 lacs respectively against "Capital Outlay on Schemes of Government Trading" and "Investments—District School Provision Fund". 2. Liabilities include Negative (Dr.) Balance of Rs. 52·86 lacs on "Suspense—Departmental and Similar Account".
8. Orissa	209,04·	239,32·	—	30,28·	1. Assets include Negative (Cr.) Balances of Rs. 38 lacs and Rs. 130 lacs respectively against "Suspense" and "Cash Balance". 2. Loans from Central Government represent Rs. 172,59 lacs out of total Liabilities.

9. Punjab	435,24·	343,59·	91,65·	—	1. Against Assets of Industrial Schemes (Dr.), Rs. 546 lacs, Depreciation of Government Commercial Concerns (Cr.) is Rs. 647 lacs. 2. "Other Liabilities" details of which have not been given, are treated as the Excess of Assets over Liabilities. 3. Liabilities include a Negative (Dr.) Balance of Rs. 2·02 lacs against "Departmental and Other Deposits—Local Funds".
10. Rajasthan	240,64·53	230,53·76	10,10·79	—	Excess of Assets over Liabilities represents Credit Balances arising on Adjustments on Reorganisation of the State, as reduced by the Cumulative Net Revenue Deficit of Rs. 657·48 lacs (Dr.) from 1950-51 to 1962-63.
11. Uttar Pradesh	619,04·60	610·44·86	8,59·74	—	1. Assets include Negative (Cr.) Balances of Rs. 371·45 lacs and Rs. 214·44 lacs against "Suspense" and "Other Assets", the latter including a credit of Rs. 248·21 lacs on Account of Schemes of Government Trading. 2. Liabilities include a Negative (Dr.) Balance of Rs. 39·39 lacs against "Departmental and Other Deposits—Other Accounts".
12. West Bengal	425,35·	425,35·	Nil	Nil	Excess of actual unspecified Cost over Book Value (Rs. 2,574 lacs) of Assets comprising Office Buildings, Hospitals, Schools, Roads, etc. has not been included. The Book value placed on these Assets is presumably only the amount of the Excess of Total Liabilities over. All Other Assets, to make the Total Assets and Liabilities agree, without insertion of any Balance of Revenue Surplus or Deficit brought forward.

Notes for Compilation of Income and Expenditure Account

1. The Analysis of Income, Expenditure and Revenue Results in this Account is on the basis of function and attempts to differentiate between :—

- (1) the State Government's traditional or "normal" Activities, comprising Administration, Relief Operations after natural calamities, and the Maintenance of Law and Order ;
- (2) the Government's "Commercial" Activities, comprising engaging in Industry and Trading ; and
- (3) the Government's Development Activities, concerned with Social Welfare (Education, Public Health, Backward Classes, etc.), increasing productivity in Agriculture, Industry and promoting and encouraging economic growth through development of the 'Infra-structure' of "Social Overheads".

2. To carry the above analysis to its logical conclusion, Borrowings by the State Government should be apportioned to the respective Activities for which the funds are obtained and the Financing Charges on such Borrowings, comprising Interest and Provision for Redemption of Borrowings, should be included as part of the Expenditure for the Activity concerned. Therefore, the "Major Head" of "Debt Services" which at present appears separately in the existing Forms of Statements of Revenue and of Expenditure on Revenue Account does not find a separate place in the Income and Expenditure Account.

3. The State Government's share of Taxes, Levies and Duties which are collected by the Central Government should be included under item 1, "Income from Taxes, Levies and Duties" and the majorities of such Taxes etc. should be separately specified in the supporting Schedule 1 for this item. Only Grants-in-Aid and other Contributions from the Central Government or Others for specific purposes (which would normally be connected with Development Activities or Relief Operations after Natural Calamities) should be included under item 16 "Contributions from Central Government and Others".

Notes for Compilation of the Balance Sheet

1. Reference may please be made to Notes 1. and 2. in Annexure 2 relating to the compilation of the Income and Expenditure Account which will accompany this Balance Sheet. In the Form of Balance Sheet the Funds belonging to the State Government, its Borrowings and its Long-term Assets are analysed on the same basis as the Income and Expenditure to differentiate between the State Government's traditional or "Normal" activities, its "Commercial" activities and its "Development" activities. This should assist an understanding of the inter-linked relationships between the relevant items in the two Statements.

2. Items of expenditure falling under the broad groups numbered (2) and (3) referred to in paragraph 5 of the Memorandum will appear on the Assets side in the Balance Sheet.

3. The distinction attempted in the Form of Balance Sheet between long-term and short-term assets and liabilities is intended to assist in :—

- a more ready reflection of the "Liquid" position of the State Government's resources; and
- better planning of, and budgeting for, income and outgo on future activities.

For this purpose, balances of assets and liabilities which are normally not expected to continue to appear in the accounts in their present form more than two years beyond the date when they first arise in such form in the books may be classified as short-term, and all other balances as long-term.

4. In Schedules 12, 14 and 17, the Fixed Assets should be analysed under appropriate heads, e.g. Buildings, Roads, Furniture, Transport Vehicles, etc. The details as at items (a) to (g) under item No. 1 on the Assets side should be shown under each such head.

APPENDIX "K"

(Reference Section IX L of the Report)

NOTE NO. XL

[Note No. XXXIX appeared in the April 1965 issue of "The Chartered Accountant"]

Premiums payable under the Emergency Risks (Goods) and (Factories) Insurance Acts

The Department of Company Affairs & Insurance, Government of India, Ministry of Finance, has informed the Institute that premium payable by a company under the Emergency Risks (Goods) and (Factories) Insurance Acts is a legal liability of the company and that there is a continuing obligation on companies to pay such premium even for past periods and to provide for such liability in their accounts where they have not already done so. The Department considers that failure to include such liability in the accounts would result in the accounts not showing a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the company and as such it is of the opinion that it is the duty of an auditor to verify that a provision for the liability has been made.

On a consideration of this position, the Council recommends to the members of the Institute that although in respect of a year the audit for which is in progress, some companies may not be liable to pay any amount under the scheme, nevertheless it would be the duty of the auditor to satisfy himself that the company had either paid or made an adequate provision in its accounts for payment of premium due under the Acts from the date they had come into force. It being a continuing liability payable by the company even in the current year, in cases where either no amount has been paid or provided for or where there is reason to believe that it has been grossly under paid, a suitable note should be made in the accounts of the year/period under audit.
